Mail volume in the post office sectional center increased this year. A total of 3,816,866 pieces of mail was handled through Dec. 25. Parcels handled during the Christmas season from Dec. 1-22 amounted to 59,913, according to Postmaster Don Pasaka. The increase in mail volume over 1966 was approximately 1,250,000 pieces, and the number of Christmas parcels handled was 12,641 above the number handled in 1966. Receipts for 1967 will not be available until the accounting period ends Jan. 12, but the Christmas period increased about $5,000 over last year, and most of the 11 preceding months showed an increase, Pasaka said. Receipts in 1966 were $275,705.47, with December accounting for $27,176.32 of the total. Seven star route carriers and 43 trucks serve 51 post offices from the center. The large volume of Christmas mail was handled by 66 regular and substitute employees with 750 overtime hours.

Bunker-Thieu Talk Called 'Very Urgent'

TAM HIEP, Vietnam (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Nguyen Van Thieu held a high-level, spur-of-the-moment meeting today and Thieu called it "very urgent." But neither Thieu nor the U.S. Embassy would say what the meeting was about. Thieu was touring allied military bases and was at the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division 20 miles east of Saigon when Bunker's helicopter landed unexpectedly with Bunker and the embassy's minister-counselor for political affairs, John A. Calhoun. Thieu, Bunker, Calhoun, and the deputy U.S. commander, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, met for 10 minutes. Bunker and Calhoun left immediately for Saigon. Bunker's quick trip to see Thieu in the field indicated that he had to discuss a matter that could not wait for Thieu's return to Saigon in the afternoon.

Humphrey Departs For African Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey flew off today on a 13-day visit to Africa promising to "renew President Johnson's commitment to the ultimate defeat in Africa as well as in our own country of poverty, ignorance, malnutrition and disease." The vice president, in a speech prepared for his departure, said:

Remap Plan Rejected

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two judges of a three-member federal court panel today ruled invalid the 1967 Missouri Congressional reapportionment act. Judges John W. Oliver and William R. Collinson joined in striking down the law passed by the 1967 General Assembly dividing the state into 10 new districts. Judge M. C. Matthes, 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, the third member of the panel, dissented. The action means that the responsibility for a new law will go back to the General Assembly which meets in a special session Jan. 12. A petition challenging the 1967 act was filed last September by Paul Preisler, St. Louis lawyer and frequent petitioner against the state's redistricting plans. He asked that the plan be held unconstitutional because of a 4.3 per cent population variance between the largest and the smallest districts. Under the Supreme Court's ruling on reapportionment all the districts must be as equal in population as possible.

Driver Bruises Chest as Car Hits Bridge

Two traffic accidents in Southeast Missouri Thursday produced one minor injury, the state patrol reported. Samuel Kimery, 39, St. Louis, received a bruised chest and was taken to Doctor's hospital, Poplar Bluff, Thursday after a single car mishap at 12:30 a.m. on Highway 60, 20 miles east of Poplar Bluff. He lost control of his 1963 Oldsmobile, and it struck a bridge railing. Joseph Sweeney, 48, LaGrange, Ill., escaped without injury at 9:25 p.m., on the state line road, four miles south of Coober. He was driving a 1964 Oldsmobile from an access road into Interstate 55, and struck road markers. He was arrested by patrolmen on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Tax Collection Pace R-1 Board Petitioned Slow, Deadline for Paying Saturday

City tax collections and delinquency are lagging behind last year, with estimated 80 per cent payments of $272,527.47 collected as of Wednesday City collector Ronald Lee said. Last year 90 per cent had been paid. City auto sticker sales are running behind last year by 500. Only 3,000 were purchased and Thursday. Total sticker sales in 1967 was 6,000. Sales for 1968 are expected to increase 500. The last chance for paying days of December are not available from the county collector's office, but the deadline at the county house in Benton and at Sikeston is Saturday noon. A one per cent penalty per month will be added after Jan. 2 on delinquent city taxes. The penalty for not having a city auto sticker will be a city court fine and costs of $7. Collections in 1966, included real estate, personal, merchant and manufacturer's taxes and city auto licenses, totaled $290,335.92. Tax collections for the waning days of December are not available from the county collector's office, but the deadline at the

Marine Advance Unchecked After Initial Landing Clash

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines swept today through two fortified villages on coastal lowlands 20 miles south of Da Nang, where a helicopter assault had led them into a heavy firefight with about 500 Communist troops. Reports from the field said enemy resistance was light, a marked departure from the rain of fire that marked the "leathery" landing in a muddy rice paddy there Thursday. These accounts said 17 Marines and 37 of the enemy were killed that day. Thirty Marines were wounded. American authorities announced two U.S. Air Force Canberra bombers mistakenly strafed a company of South Vietnamese irregulars locked in a jungle fight with Viet Cong Thursday, killing 4 and wounding 32 and 2 American advisors. U.S. Command said the South Vietnamese force was battling a Viet Cong force in the jungled coastlands of Binh Thuan Province about 125 miles northeast of Saigon. The B57 Canberras were called in to give supporting fire and dipped down with blazing 20mm cannon and 50-caliber machine guns. The ground action against the Viet Cong apparently was broken off as the shattered South Vietnamese unit, called a civilian irregular defense group, pulled back with its casualties. The strafing run took place in midafternoon and the weather was relatively clear, the U.S. Command said. An investigation was ordered by the commander of the U.S. 7th Air Force Gen. William Momyer and Air Force officers were sent to the scene. The mistaken strafing came on a day of scattered ground actions up and down the nation.

Nine of Couple's 18 Children Perish as Fire Sweeps Home

MONT LAURIER, Que. (AP)—Fire engulfed the home of a couple with 18 children early today and nine of the children—aged 3 to 18—perished. The parents and five other children home at the time escaped by jumping from bedroom windows into six inches of snow. Three older children of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Girouard were away when the fire was discovered by a daughter at 12:30 a.m. Another daughter is married and does not live in the two-story house at Lac des Iles, near Mont Laurier 125 miles north of Montreal. Four of the children—twins Jean-Claude and Jean-Marc, 16; Denise, 15, and Roger, 13—were sent to a hospital along with their parents. They received broken bones and cuts. All the children were asleep in second-floor bedrooms. Girouard, 47, and his wife, 43, were asleep in a ground-floor bedroom. One of the daughters smelled smoke and awakened the family with shouts of "Fire! Fire!" The parents ran into a downstairs hallway of the 11-room house in an effort to reach the children upstairs. They were turned back by flames and heat. They made their escape by smashing through a window. One of the children who jumped from upstairs ran to a neighbor's for help. Neighbors sought to pile chairs up the side of the wood frame house in an effort to reach the trapped children, but the fire had raced through to the roof and the house began to collapse. Police identified the dead children as Carmen, 18; Marie Claire, 17; Bernard, 12; Jeanne, 10; Raymond, 7; Mariette, 6; Clemente, 5; Chantal, 4, and Jeanne, 3. Not home were Rachel, 21; Norman, 20, and Andre, 19. Monique, 23, is married. Rachel said, "The flames went so fast that there was nothing anyone could do." She rushed to the house after hearing of the fire, but by that time there was little left of the building. "We don't know how it started. The place burned down in no time at all. It might have been an explosion, but we don't know."

Kirkpatrick Hails New Uniform Securities Act

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A new and stronger Missouri uniform securities act will go into effect Jan. 1. Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick pointed out today it is the first complete revision of "blue sky" laws since 1929. The new law gives greater powers to the securities commissioner and provide closer supervision of the industry. "I feel that this new statute gives our department a better opportunity to protect Missouri investors from questionable practices in the security field," Kirkpatrick said. "Of course the element of risk can never be removed from investments but with these improved tools our securities division can do a better job of weeding out deceptive and doubtful offerings."

Crash Fatal to Holcomb Woman

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Lou McEwen, 67, of Holcomb, Mo., died early today at a hospital here of injuries she suffered Wednesday in a head-on collision on Arkansas 62 about three miles west of Piggott. Mrs. McEwen was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, R. D. McEwen, 70, that collided with a pickup truck driven by Ezra Renard of Piggott. McEwen was hospitalized in fair condition. Renard and two of his grandchildren also were injured, none seriously. State police said the accident occurred when McEwen started to pass another vehicle. All persons who buy or sell securities in Missouri must register and post bond as agents, including executive officers who

Johnson Expected to Act Quickly on Sihanouk Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is expected to accept promptly Prince Norodom Sihanouk's indirect suggestion of U. S. ambassador talks over the issue of Communist Viet name use of Cambodia as a sanctuary. Cambodia's chief of state, describing his country as "caught between the hammer and the anvil," said he would welcome an envoy from the President to discuss the situation. Speedy dispatch of such a U.S. spokesman appeared likely. Sihanouk's statements were published today in a copyrighted Washington Post story based on his replies Thursday to questions posed by Post correspondent Stanley Karnow. In response to other questions put by Karnow, in a cable, Sihanouk said he would not intervene militarily to stop U.S. troops from entering certain sections of Cambodia in so-called pursuit of North Vietnamese or Viet Cong forces. U.S. officials were reported surprised and pleased with this statement, which came only a week after the prince spurned U.S. bid for joint efforts to stop Vietnamese Communist use of neighboring Cambodia as a sanctuary. At that time, Sihanouk denounced the United States and all but branded it an aggressor in Southeast Asia. Speculation was Johnson most likely would send Averell Harriman, U.S. ambassador-at-large, to talk with Sihanouk. In the interview, Sihanouk made clear he also would welcome Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, whom he described as a "just and courageous man..." But he said if large Communist units are in fact entering Cambodia "and if limited combat breaks out between American and Vietnamese forces, both illegally in Cambodia, it goes without saying that we would not intervene militarily." While stating he wouldn't send Cambodian forces against troops crossing his border in hot pursuit actions, Sihanouk added:

Housewives' Estimates of Their Own Value To Home Vary From $50 to $500 A Week

NEW YORK (AP)—How much, in dollars and cents, is the American housewife really worth? The Agriculture Department is considering trying to find out in hopes of determining whether working wives really mean profit for the family coffers. The housewives have their own ideas—and they vary widely. "I'd be worth about $500 a week," said one woman. "About $50 weekly," estimated another. "I think it's silly to even try to put a value on a housewife," scoffed a third. Most of the women responding to an Associated Press survey would cost "about $600 a month" to hire a nurse for their son. In addition, she said, her husband would have to pay someone for the cooking, cleaning and laundry. Several years ago, the Chase Manhattan Bank figured that the going rates for all the jobs under the title "housewife," the average woman should get $159.34 a week. That included such estimates as 3.3 hours of food shopping a week at $1.50 an hour and 13.1 hours of cooking a week at $2.50 an hour. Mrs. William Pichler, 45, of Miami, the mother of two said

Asked to Clarify Proposal

PORTAGEVILLE -- Patrons of the R-1 school district last night petitioned the R-1 board of education to conduct a special election and to call a special election regarding the proposed reorganization of county schools. The petition, signed by 735 persons, charges that the election to determine whether the county districts will be reorganized was called for without supplying patrons with information about the advantages and disadvantages of the reorganization. The election is set for Jan. 9. The petition requests that the special meeting be held to inform patrons of these advantages and disadvantages. It also asks the board to call a special election so that the voters can express their dispositions toward the reorganization. Mayor Barry Richardson today said that the main concern of the petitions was that the public had not been informed either by the county board of education or the R-1 board about the reasons for the proposed enlarged district. Prior to having committed the district to reorganization, the school board should have made public all its knowledge of the factors involved, Mayor Richardson said. Arvil Adams, president of the R-1 school board and president of the state school board association, said the board was generally in agreement with the petitioners. He said the board was making a determined effort to have B. W. Robinson of the state vocational training department attend a public meeting at Portageville to explain the advantages of reorganization, particularly in the vocational training field. The state legislature has set Jan. 15, 1968, as the cutoff date for local and county school boards to vote on reorganization without first having a feasibility survey made from the state level. In view of the time factor the board perhaps moved more quickly than it would have if there had been more time, Adams said. There are now about 850 school districts in the state, and the state board of education has indicated that this number eventually would be reduced to 150, Adams explained. The R-1 board felt that when this occurred, the larger population centers would be chosen as sites for vocational schools and that by being members of a county organization, local or county schools at least would be able to retain control of the location of the schools in their county, he said. A petition has been filed in circuit court at New Madrid by patrons of the Morehouse C-12 district requesting the court to enter its order restraining the election until an election is held to determine whether C-12 patrons want to annex their district to the Sikeston R-6 district. The county board called for the election Jan. 9 to determine whether patrons of the Portageville, Libbourn, Matthews, New Madrid, Parna, Morehouse and Higginson districts want to reorganize into one district.

MORLEY -- The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shuffit, who live on highway 61, south of the Baseline line, was destroyed by fire last Friday. The Shuffits are temporarily making their home with his mother, Mrs. Anna Shuffit, on Murray Lane in Sikeston.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

There's some comfort that the soldier in Vietnam who at first refused to shake the hand of Michigan Gov. George Romney changed his mind. Better conduct came from the soldier who grabbed his hand readily and expressed the belief "I feel like I have been brainwashed, too."

Governor Romney has admitted that his choice of words was poor when after an earlier Vietnam war trip he expressed the view that he had been "brainwashed."

The remark has damaged his Republican presidential prospects more than anything else that he has ever done or said. It led many Americans to conclude that if the remark was true Romney was unfit to serve the country as president.

Romney is trying valiantly to make amends. He patiently explained his position as well as his regrets to the servicemen in Vietnam, who hesitated to shake hands with him because he disagreed with "some of the things you have said about Vietnam."

There are too many Americans who don't care to shake hands with anyone with whom they disagree.

How unfortunate this is. Freedom of expression is guaranteed by the federal constitution but more than that it is one of the great strengths of our form of government.

Freedom of speech should be encouraged because it benefits us all. Inhibiting it is dangerous and could lead the nation toward a dictatorship.

More tolerance is needed. People often are encountered who refuse to listen to a person speak whose views conflict with their own no matter how eloquent or able he may be.

Such a narrow attitude is unfair not to the speaker but the possessors of bias, who refuse to go near him let alone listen to an exposition of his views.

If the soldier in Vietnam had withheld his handshake from Romney he would have given a rebuff to one of the freedoms he is fighting for in Vietnam.

Others make the same mistake. Many do not realize how inconsistent they are in taking such an unreasonable position.

Everyone wants an audience--preferably an agreeable one -- when he expresses his own opinion. They are egotistical enough to think their own opinions are the right ones. This is nonsense. No one is right all the time but the process goes beyond that in importance.

Freedom of speech is one of our most cherished possessions as citizens in dictator-ridden countries are painfully aware.

The largest timbers believed to have been manufactured in the United States have been produced in Portland, Oregon. Each beam weighs 35,000 pounds and contains more than enough lumber for two large houses and required some 500 pounds of glue for laminating. The beams were shipped to Hampton, Virginia, where they will be used to support the roof of the new physical education building of Hampton Institute. The building is 125 by 168 feet without any interior posts or other supports. Five flatcars were required to ship the seven beams.

SHOCK TO BLEEDING HEARTS

When Judge William H. Billings announced a new policy several months ago removing the lid of secrecy on proceedings of Dunklin County's Juvenile Court, the general reaction in this area and throughout the state was one of enthusiasm. The exception was the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which maintained in an editorial that secrecy was necessary for juvenile rehabilitation, a premise that has never been satisfactorily proved by anyone.

The Post Dispatch's penchant for secrecy seemed to have been overlooked in its edition of Sunday, Dec. 17, when a staff member wrote of the brutal slaying of a Kansas Citian, who was shot while trying to defend his teacher from a gang of toughs.

The Post-Dispatch story, which expressed righteous shock at the brutal slaying, not only revealed the names of the over-17 youths involved but went so far as to identify, by name, the 14-year-old punk who pulled the trigger.

We can only visualize the editorial heads that must have rolled as a result of such indiscriminate disclosure of a young juvenile gone wrong. Imagine! When the identity of a juvenile is so essential to the cause of law and order that it cannot be given, quite obviously the Post-Dispatch has jeopardized the rehabilitation of a 14-year-old who just happened to kill a young man in cold blood.

The bleeding hearts in St. Louis must still be in shock.

Many thanks:

This year in cooperation with the Art Department of the Sikeston Public Schools, the Daily Standard conducted a contest for Christmas drawings.

The theme of "What Christmas means to me."

We want to thank all of the business that used the children's drawings in their Christmas messages.

For each drawing that was used, the Daily Standard will pay one dollar to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Fund in the child's name who drew the illustration.

Quite a few firms used the drawings.

We hope when we conduct next year's contest many more will encourage the art students by using their ideas for their Christmas message.

Above all else, 1967 appeared to be a year when the virtues were questioned -- in politics, in economics, in religion and in virtually every other element of the structure of present-day society. What does it all mean? No one really seems to know.

Some claim the tearing down of old standards reflects what might be called a healthy renaissance of advanced thought. Others view with foreboding a trend they feel is leading to a moral breakdown and anarchy. The experts are the most confused of all. Sometimes their judgments of coming events are ludicrous. Typical of their inability to assess the future was the recent statement of one of this country's leading financial authorities that devaluation of the British pound was unlikely because the English program

NEW YORK (AP) -- Every year has a lost week, and this is it for most people.

It is the lull in life that occurs between Christmas Day and the 2nd of January.

The atmosphere of frantic good will to all that subsides into a live and let live feeling of tired tolerance. When people meet each salutes the other with half-nod, a half-smile, a stifled yawn and a small "hello" that sounds like a sigh of exhaustion, or the last noise of a deflating toy balloon.

The general emotion is one of genteel fatigue and acceptance of things as they are. Man is caught in a posture of postponement.

Next week, of course, everybody will be up and doing, and the bustle of resumption will resound throughout the land.

But this week nobody is launching new battleships, because no body feels like making waves. All the busy human spiders are home. The children are too just sitting there watching dust bunnies break or tearing apart collect on their coveys and their Christmas presents to reminding their filmy architecture, quire any particular parental attention. Papa and Mama call a Nothing Week. Even the people who are scheming against the national welfare are probably lying down on the job this very minute because they are too tired to stand up and plot.

Of course, the tremendous pulse of American industry is never-altogether stilled. If anyone had the strength to walk through a typical business office, he would see a lot of activity going on, but it would be like one of those camera scenes done in slow motion.

This is because nobody is really doing anything much -- he is just going through the motions of Going Through The Motions Week.

The stern boss spends half a day holding his spectacles up to the light and polishing them. He is too worn out to frown at his staff, let alone give them the bawling out they deserve. And his underlings pay him no more attention than magpies do a weary bull. They know that if he hasn't fired them already he won't make up his mind to do so until next week.

of austerity was so fundamentally reassuring as to make a crisis improbable. By the time this particular forecast was in print, the British pound had been devalued, and no one knows what the future holds for the monetary systems of the world.

Out of all the confusion of 1967, one fact has become clearly obvious -- self-government itself is on trial. This is so because the very truths which are the mainstay of self-government are being altered or swept away one after another -- truths that were once called "self-evident." These truths have to do with financial responsibility, the integrity of the family, the inviolate rights of persons and property under the law and concepts of individual self-reliance and initiative that are inseparable from freedom under representative government. A gradual decline in respect for these prerequisites of liberty was never more apparent in the observation of many people than during the crucial months of 1967.

Outwardly, the United States is invincible. But, the founding fathers warned nearly 200 years ago that the greatest danger to the American experiment in free government could well come from within. A debauched currency, a weakening pride in individual independence and the gradual ascendancy of state authority are undeniably changing the outlook for constitutional government as we have known it in the United States.

Few now living have the capacity to view the present era as it will be recorded in the history books at some distant time in the future. Our present civilization, and more specifically our own country, measured by material progress and the potential for future progress, opens a vista that staggers the imagination. The precepts under which civilization has advanced to this point, and which have brought a greater measure of well-being to more people than has ever been known in the world before, must have a validity that the hippies, the malcontents and the anti-American demonstrators have failed to perceive.

No political party, no single group of citizens is solely to blame for the dismal drift that has put self-government on trial, and as the elections of 1968 approach, we should expect no miracles from our elected representatives. They but reflect the temper and attitudes of the electorate. The signs became abundant during 1967 that a turning point has been reached in the affairs of the world and of our country. As we enter 1968, everyone of us should resolve to be worthy of the heritage of self-government -- a heritage for which 500,000 men in Viet Nam are laying their lives on the line.

12,000 REASONS TO BE PROUD YOU'RE AN AMERICAN

More than 12,000 United States Marines in Vietnam, whose terms in combat were ending, have volunteered to stay, and keep on fighting. Thousands of United States soldiers, sailors, airmen are doing the same thing. These men say they believe they are winning this war, and if they stay long enough to win it decisively, it will keep the next war from being on our shores, above our cities.

One of them with a foot shotted, when told he'd be given an artificial foot that would make him as good as new, said, "Then have it sent out here, so I can get back on the job."

And did you know that these same U. S. Marines are paying out of their own pockets for the schooling of 56,000 Vietnamese children?

Regardless of how you feel about this war (and I for one feel these men know more about it than I do) regardless of that, you can't help but feel proud -- 12,000 reasons to be VERY proud -- to be fellow-citizens of men like that.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY:

U.S. gave King Constantine backstage encouragement; U.S. worried over Russian fleet in Mediterranean; independent citizens are doing Rocky's running.

WASHINGTON -- This will be denied, but the United States discreetly and secretly encouraged King Constantine to oppose the Greek military junta.

The first discreet encouragement came from President Johnson himself when the King visited the White House last September. The President was careful. He did not imply that the young monarch should attempt to overthrow the military regime, but he did urge Constantine to oppose the regime's police-state methods, especially the detention of some 6,000 political prisoners and the trial for treason of Andreas Papadopoulos, son of the former Prime Minister and former economics professor at the University of Minnesota and the University of California.

Back in Athens, U.S. Ambassador Phillips Talbot followed Johnson's lead by further encouraging the King to use his influence against the tough tactics of the military. Talbot deliberately courted the King and cold-shouldered the military. He made it quite clear that the United States would like to see Greece return to constitutional rule. This has been the policy of the United States in every country where constitutional rule has been overthrown.

On the morning of Dec. 13, Constantine summoned Talbot to the palace and confided that he intended to overthrow the junta. The ambassador asked whether the King had planned his move carefully. The King replied in the affirmative and asked for American support. The Ambassador replied that he could make no promise. Constantine brushed this aside, saying he would let the Americans know if he needed help.

Immediately thereafter, the 27-year-old monarch flew to Kavalla, a seaport town 200 miles north of Athens, to rally the northern garrisons behind him. However, there was apathy toward the King. Furthermore, the military government apparently knew of the King's strike in advance.

ROYAL LEAK

This is reported to have leaked via Copenhagen. The queen of Greece, who is Danish, had confided her husband's plans to her parents, the King and Queen of Denmark.

At any rate, Constantine's bold move was not thoroughly prepared. He had not coordinated with ex-Premier Constantine Karamanlis in Paris, strongest constitutional leader Greece has had since the war. As a result, Constantine fled to Rome with his family.

Back in Athens, Col. George Papadopoulos, Greece's military strongman, suspected American involvement and was furious. Papadopoulos is an intelligence officer by profession, schooled in intrigue, with a steel trap mind and a tight lip. He arranged an unofficial meeting with Ambassador Talbot at his military headquarters the day after the abortive coup.

Bluntly, Papadopoulos accused the Ambassador of encouraging the King. Talbot flatly denied that the United States had been involved, which technically was true. The United States had given Constantine no direct assistance.

In Rome, meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Fred Reinhardt slipped across the street from his residence to pay a private call on King Constantine at the Greek embassy. The King looked haggard but determined. He announced that he still headed Greece's only legitimate government and asked the United States to withhold recognition of the military regime.

MENACE OF SOVIET FLEET

This request, relayed to President Johnson, faced him with a dilemma. He is vigorously opposed to military take-overs. However, his own military advisers have been pointing to the large fleet which the Soviet Union has moved into the Mediterranean, the overtures which Russia has made to Turkey and the tremendous supply of arms that Russia has dumped into Egypt, together with thousands of Russian technical advisers.

The purpose of the Truman doctrine was to block the spread of communist influence in both Greece and Turkey, which sit astride the bosphorus. Johnson does not want to lose Greece as a NATO partner. On the other hand he doesn't want to be blackmailed by the Greek military junta into recognizing dictatorship.

He has finally decided to hold up recognition of the junta, meanwhile bringing pressure to restore constitutional government. This was behind the announcement in Athens last week that the junta would set a timetable for a plebiscite on a new Greek constitution and "probably" a date for elections.

Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakis held an unusual press conference last week in which he not only promised this timetable, but admitted that the military regime might not win any popular contests with the Greek people. Foreign observers go further and report that the regime has lost most of its effectiveness.

TO RUN OR NOT TO RUN

Gov. Rockefeller may be consistent in denying he is a candidate for President, but he is not consistent regarding the operation of "Independent citizens for Rockefeller."

Early this month the independent citizens for Rockefeller circularized Nebraska Republicans, urging them to meet in Omaha. The letter, signed by assistant director Stephen R. Helsen, read:

"Independent citizens for Rockefeller was organized to obtain the Republican nomination for Nelson Rockefeller in 1968. We have been working for several months to mobilize and channel the great enthusiasm for him which already exists throughout the country.

"We are asking you and five other individuals in the Omaha area who have demonstrated the concern for responsible government to join with us in our efforts. I will be at the commodore hotel in Omaha from Sunday evening, December 3rd, through Thursday, December 7th. I would appreciate an opportunity to speak with you some evening. If this is convenient, please call me at the hotel. (342-7755)."

Officers of the independent citizens for Rockefeller are Irvin Barash, Allen Kaye, Robert Muh, and Gilbert Offenhartz.

BATTLES WON AND LOST

Every businessman should be a member of the association representing his particular business or industry. If there is no such association, he should help to organize one.

Trade associations are of benefit to members, the customers of members, and the public. Half the problems of any businessman are equally the problems of his competitors. He cannot solve them alone. But by all working together, these problems can be solved.

Every industry has a selling problem, which can often be better handled cooperatively than individually. The orange growers, for instance, would be helpless individually. The grower of a thousand crates of lemons could not make his message heard outside of his own county, but by paying a few cents per crate into a common fund, his voice is heard in every hamlet of the country.

The preacher was having a heart-to-heart talk with a backslider of his flock, whose drinking of moonshine invariably led to quarrelling with his neighbors, and occasional shotgun blasts at some of them.

"Can't you see, Ben," intoned the person, "that not one good thing comes out of this drinking?"

"Well, I sort of disagree there," replied the backslider. "It makes me miss the folks I shoot at."

Gramp, radio sez the U. N. is quit far three months and the lawmakers for one month. U.N. didn't say nothin' but takin up the subject of Vitamin like the lawmakers ask em to. Now what I want to know is what's the U.N. for?

Donno, lessen it's to hold the little nations while the big nations lays on the Cat-o-nine tail till they accept a foreign form of Government dictated from a name it.

In the course of my activities in public affairs, I have one notable win and two near misses. The most satisfactory win was getting the required number of state legislators to ratify the No Third Term Amendment after it had been before the legislatures four years. The 22nd Amendment is the only Amendment that has been ratified after being before the State Legislatures four years. I started with the newspapers called a one-man campaign on January 10, 1951, and in six weeks and five days, Nevada was waiting to become the necessary 36th State.

A temporary winner was the success of Facts Forum, which had such merit that the TV and radio stations gave it as much as $5,000,000 a year in free time. Some liberal Democrats constantly condemned Facts Forum, but three future Democrat nominees for Vice-President -- Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), and John Sparkman (D-Ala.) -- all appeared on Facts Forum, as did U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

The failure of the Republican Party in 1952 to nominate General Douglas MacArthur for President was a heartbreaking loss as it came within four hours of election would have been followed by his election and would have changed the course of world history.

The establishment of small Freedom Posts throughout the Nation, of citizens who would keep better informed, was one of the minor losses.

A current project, Youth Freedom, Speakers, may help to inform citizens of all ages, but putting the sincerity and enthusiasm of youth to work in behalf of freedom's cause. Hopefully, this project may score a plus. H.L.H.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

TEACHERS LEAD REVOLT law forbidding strikes by public Season's Sleeper Crises Are men and women and many unions.

Warnings Of Sweeping Strikes Against Gov't. In '68.
NEW YORK -- As usual this is the crises season in the big town. As usual the repercussions will billow out to hit other megalopolises, suburbs and even hamlets everywhere. As usual there are sleeper crises.

During this not so merry season exactly two years ago, it was the transit strike which launched a new era in labor and triggered the "nothing sacred" flash-union fire strikes of doctors, clinical workers, fire fighters, police, and garbage collectors, critical municipal staffs and hospital work forces.

Now another new labor era is about to be born. The Teachers Federation is the midwife. The era will be marked by a coast-to-coast showdown between the government, be it local, state or federal, and the new dynamism of some five or six million public service employees.

During this civil service war, new labor figures will move to the top; political careers will be made or broken; the streets will be laden with demonstrators, or garbage; power bases in "public and private sectors" will shift.

The fury will pivot on the right of the public worker to strike against the state.

It is McGee Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, after reading a series of reports, who said knowingly, albeit gingerly: "Recent events demonstrate the rapidly growing importance of trade unions in the public services. In spite of the best efforts of a few experts, the country lacks the solid research and thorough analysis that are needed as a basis for sound courses of action."

Already one out of every 12 union members is a public employee. Strikes of such employees have so far occurred mainly at the local level, but it is not difficult to foresee coming confrontations in state and federal government."

Before one discusses McGee Bundy's obvious prediction of strikes against the U. S. government, let's look at what's really happening in New York.

Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, Local 2, AFL-CIO, after briefing most national labor leaders, went to jail for leading last fall's teachers' strike. Labor leaders with national reputations at stake staked out at the prison steps.

Influential leaders of the state, County and Municipal Employees distributed leaflets at the municipal building and city hall area, showing prison bars and calling on city employees to leave work a half-hour earlier and demonstrate at the jail. "Our right to strike is at stake," cried the throwaway.

Doughty Matthew Guinan, president of the Transport Workers Union, told intimates privately that though he had said publicly he meant it when he said he believed that Shanker had been put in jail to frighten the TWU leaders during their transit negotiations.

However, amid all the clamor of nightly vigils at the red brick city jail, only a few labor experts read the small print in the new state law forbidding strikes by public employees. This affected 600,000 men and women and many unions.

The law does more than give the courts the right to fine a union violating this antistrike statute. It does more than give the authorities the right to punish a union by suspending its automatic dues checkoff. (In New York City, for example, the Board of Education has been collecting dues for the union by taking it irregularly out of the teachers pay checks. For this the board charged the union $40,000 annually.)

The law does two things which workers, fire fighters, police, and garbage collectors, critical municipal staffs and hospital public sector.

First, the new Public Employment Relations Board (PERB) has the right to suspend dues checkoff and to withhold it indefinitely until the union is willing to pledge that it never will strike again.

This, of course, no union leader, especially in a heated up white collar union such as the Teachers, can pledge and survive. Secondly, the PERB actually has the right to fine a union which strikes against the local government -- and seize the union cash, sell off its securities and continue to tax the rank and file membership until the full fine is paid.

No labor leader can survive politically in his own union unless he fights to wipe such clauses off the state books.

Such a fight -- a war, actually -- is under way here.

The United Federation of Teachers has had its dues checkoff suspended for a year and cash is running low. So Shanker has asked his 50,000 members to pay the next six months dues in advance directly to the union office with a check or checks totalling $30.

There will be enough money to pay off the fine. But that's not the issue. The point is that the state could seize the union's securities if the penalty were not met.

More important is the fact that the Teachers will not submit a "no strike pledge." There, ineffective, the new Rockefeller antistrike law is useless. There will be public strikes -- lots of them in all sectors but one. That is the federal arena. But for how long?

In this state there are some 200,000 federal employees working alongside or nearby the 600,000 state, county and municipal employees. And the federal workers are saying, in effect, as one of their leaders did the other day: "If the non-federal public employees such as the teachers can strike, why should the U. S. employees be forced to sign an affidavit pledging not to walk out? Why should we be subject to criminal action and a felony penalty of a year and a day and $1,000 fine for striking?"

"Why should we, therefore, be subject to automatic dismissal? Why are federal workers different from state and local employees? Something will have to be done." Apparently such men as McGee Bundy and many an insider believe the confrontations will come all too soon. As happened the last time, New York's crises become the nation's jitters.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

There's some comfort that the soldier in Vietnam who at first refused to shake the hand of Michigan Gov. George Romney changed his mind. Better conduct came from the soldier who grabbed his hand readily and expressed the belief "I feel like I have been brainwashed, too."

Governor Romney has admitted that his choice of words was poor when after an earlier Vietnam war trip he expressed the view that he had been "brainwashed."

The remark has damaged his Republican presidential prospects more than anything else that he has ever done or said. It led many Americans to conclude that if the remark was true Romney was unfit to serve the country as president.

Romney is trying valiantly to make amends. He patiently explained his position as well as his regrets to the servicemen in Vietnam, who hesitated to shake hands with him because he disagreed with "some of the things you have said about Vietnam."

There are too many Americans who don't care to shake hands with anyone with whom they disagree.

How unfortunate this is. Freedom of expression is guaranteed by the federal constitution but more than that it is one of the great strengths of our form of government.

Freedom of speech should be encouraged because it benefits us all. Inhibiting it is dangerous and could lead the nation toward a dictatorship.

More tolerance is needed. People often are encountered who refuse to listen to a person speak whose views conflict with their own no matter how eloquent or able he may be.

Such a narrow attitude is unfair not to the speaker but the possessors of bias, who refuse to go near him let alone listen to an exposition of his views.

If the soldier in Vietnam had withheld his handshake from Romney he would have given a rebuff to one of the freedoms he is fighting for in Vietnam.

Others make the same mistake. Many do not realize how inconsistent they are in taking such an unreasonable position.

Everyone wants an audience--preferably an agreeable one -- when he expresses his own opinion. They are egotistical enough to think their own opinions are the right ones. This is nonsense. No one is right all the time but the process goes beyond that in importance.

Freedom of speech is one of our most cherished possessions as citizens in dictator-ridden countries are painfully aware.

IT TICKLES US

This is the season to be jolly. And there has been the usual round of holiday merrymaking that will continue for another week, plus a day.

Which reminded us of this old saying:
"A hangover is something to occupy a head that wasn't used the night before."

The largest timbers believed to have been manufactured in the United States have been produced in Portland, Oregon. Each beam weighs 35,000 pounds and contains more than enough lumber for two large houses and required some 500 pounds of glue for laminating. The beams were shipped to Hampton, Virginia, where they will be used to support the roof of the new physical education building of Hampton Institute. The building is 125 by 168 feet without any interior posts or other supports. Five flatcars were required to ship the seven beams.

SHOCK TO BLEEDING HEARTS

When Judge William H. Billings announced a new policy several months ago removing the lid of secrecy on proceedings of Dunklin County's Juvenile Court, the general reaction in this area and throughout the state was one of enthusiasm. The exception was the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which maintained in an editorial that secrecy was necessary for juvenile rehabilitation, a premise that has never been satisfactorily proved by anyone.

The Post Dispatch's penchant for secrecy seemed to have been overlooked in its edition of Sunday, Dec. 17, when a staff member wrote of the brutal slaying of a Kansas Citian, who was shot while trying to defend his teacher from a gang of toughs.

The Post-Dispatch story, which expressed righteous shock at the brutal slaying, not only revealed the names of the over-17 youths involved but went so far as to identify, by name, the 14-year-old punk who pulled the trigger.

We can only visualize the editorial heads that must have rolled as a result of such indiscriminate disclosure of a young juvenile gone wrong. Imagine! When the identity of a juvenile is so essential to the cause of law and order that it cannot be given, quite obviously the Post-Dispatch has jeopardized the rehabilitation of a 14-year-old who just happened to kill a young man in cold blood.

The bleeding hearts in St. Louis must still be in shock.

We want to thank all of the business that used the children's drawings in their Christmas messages.

For each drawing that was used, the Daily Standard will pay one dollar to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Fund in the child's name who drew the illustration.

Quite a few firms used the drawings.

We hope when we conduct next year's contest many more will encourage the art students by using their ideas for their Christmas message.

An excerpt of a national opinion survey consisting of 2,137 interviews involving unions and labor laws made during November, 1966, and February, 1967, in behalf of a joint committee of trade associations, representing more than 35 industries, has been made public by the Opinion Research Corporation, Princeton, N. J.: "More than 75 per cent of all Americans are for unions and management having equal rights to communicate with employees at any time. Union members (84 per cent) show even stronger support for this principle. Six out of every ten people feel that union members should be guaranteed the right to criticize their leaders without fear of fine or discipline by the union. Seven out of ten union members endorse this right."

When a magnificent man appeared at a public function in Sikeston, people wondered who he was. He was not only fine looking, but he was dressed in exquisite taste, and his manners were courtly. After a good deal of rubbernecking, it was discovered that he was a Sikeston widower whose wife had been dead a few months. He was beginning to "notice" again.

NEW YORK (AP) -- Every year has a lost week, and this is it for most people.

It is the lull in life that occurs between Christmas Day and the 2nd of January.

The atmosphere of frantic good will to all subsides into a live and let live feeling of tired tolerance. When people meet each salutes the other with half-moat, a half-smile, a stifled yawn and a small "hello" that sounds like a sigh of exhaustion, or the last noise of a deflating toy balloon.

The general emotion is one of genteel fatigue and acceptance of things as they are. Man is caught in a posture of postponement. Next week, of course, everybody will be up and doing, and the bustle of resumption will resound throughout the land.

But this week nobody is launch-ing new battleships, because no-through 1968. Lody feels like making waves. This is the best week of all for all the busy human spiders are home life. Papadopoulos is an intelligence officer by profession, schooled in intrigue, with a steel-trap mind and a tight lip. He arranged an unofficial meeting with Ambassador Talbot at his military headquarters the day after the abortive coup.

Blumdy, Papadopoulos accused the Ambassador of encouraging the King. Talbot flatly denied that the United States had been involved, which technically was true. The United States had given Constantine no direct assistance. In Rome, meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Fred Reinhardt slipped across the street from his residence to pay a private call on King Constantine at the Greek embassy. The King looked haggard but determined. He announced that he still headed Greece's only legitimate government and asked the United States to withhold recognition of the military regime.

MENACE OF SOVIET FLEET This request, relayed to President Johnson, faced him with a dilemma. He is vigorously opposed to military take-overs. However, his own military advisers have been pointing to the large fleet which the Soviet Union has moved into the Mediterranean, the overtures which Russia has made to Turkey and the tremendous supply of arms that Russia has dumped into Egypt, together with a thousand Russian technical advisers.

The purpose of the Truman doctrine was to block the spread of communist influence in both Greece and Turkey, which sit astride the bosphorus. Johnson does not want to lose Greece as a NATO partner. On the other hand he doesn't want to be blackmailed by the Greek military junta into recognizing dictatorship.

He has finally decided to hold up recognition of the junta, meanwhile bringing pressure to restore constitutional government. This was behind the announcement in Athens last week that the junta would set a timetable for a plebiscite on a new Greek constitution and "probably" a date for elections.

Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos held an unusual press conference last week in which he not only promised this timetable, but admitted that the military regime might not win any popularity contests with the Greek people. Foreign observers go further and report that the regime has lost most of its effectiveness.

TO RUN OR NOT TO RUN Gov. Rockefeller may be consistent in denying he is a candidate for President, but he is not consistent regarding the operation of "Independent citizens for Rockefeller."

Early this month the independent citizens for Rockefeller circularized Nebraska Republicans, urging them to meet in Omaha. The letter, signed by assistant director Stephen R. Helpern, read: "Independent citizens for Rockefeller was organized to obtain the Republican nomination for Nelson Rockefeller in 1968. We have been working for several months to mobilize and channel the great enthusiasm for him which already exists throughout the country."

"We are asking you and fifteen other individuals in the Omaha area who have demonstrated the concern for responsible government to join with us in our efforts. I will be at the commodore hotel in Omaha from Sunday evening, December 3rd, through Thursday, December 7th. I would appreciate an opportunity to speak with you some evening. If this is convenient, please call me at the hotel (342-7755)."

Officers of the independent citizens for Rockefeller are Irvin Barash, Allen Kaye, Robert Muh, and Gilbert Offenhart.

H.L. Hunt Says

BATTLES WON AND LOST

In the course of my activities in public affairs, I have one notable win and two near misses. The most satisfactory win was getting the required number of state legislatures to ratify the No Third Term Amendment after it had been before the legislatures four years. The 22nd Amendment is the only Amendment that has been ratified after being before the State Legislatures four years. I started what the newspapers called a one-man campaign on January 10, 1961, and in six weeks and five days, Nevada was waiting to become the necessary 36th State.

A temporary winner was the Success of Facts Forum, which had such merit that the TV and radio stations gave it as much as $5,000,000 a year in free time. Some liberal Democrats constantly condemned Facts Forum, but three future Democrat nominees for Vice-President -- Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), and John Sparkman (D-Ala.) -- all appeared on Facts Forum, as did U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

The failure of the Republican Party in 1952 to nominate General Douglas MacArthur for President was a heartbreaking loss as it came within four hours of success. MacArthur's nomination would have been followed by his election and would have been followed by his election and would have changed the course of world history.

The establishment of small Freedom Posts throughout the Nation, of citizens who would keep better informed, was one of the minor losses.

A current project, Youth Freedom, Speakers, may help to inform citizens of all ages, but putting the sincerity and enthusiasm of youth to work in behalf of freedom's cause. Hopefully, this project may score a plus. H.L.

Gramp, radio sez the U. N. is quit for three months and the lawmakers for one month. U.N. didn't say nothin but take up the subject of Vitamin like the lawmakers ask em to. Now what I want to know is what's the U.N. fur?

Donno, lessen it's to hold the little nations while the big nations lays on the Cat-o-nine tail till they accept a foreign form of Government dictated from name it.

One of them with a foot shot off, when told he'd be given artificial foot that would make him as good as new, said, "Then have it sent out here, so I can get back on the job."

And did you know that these same U. S. Marines are paying out of their own pockets for the schooling of 56,000 Vietnamese children?

Regardless of how you feel about this war (and I for one feel these men know more about it than I do) regardless of that, you can't help but feel proud -- 12,000 reasons to be VERY proud -- to be fellow-citizens of men like that.

The road to success is forever under construction.

Now another new labor era is about to be born. The Teachers Federation is the midwife. The era will be marked by a coast-to-coast showdown between the government, be it local, state or federal, and the new dynamism of some five or six million public service employees.

During this civil service war, new labor figures will move to the top; political careers will be made or broken; the streets will be laden with demonstrators, or garbage; power based in the "public and private sectors" will shift.

The fury will pivot on the right of the public worker to strike against the state.

It is McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, after reading a series of reports, who said knowingly, albeit gingerly: "Recent events demonstrate the rapidly growing importance of trade unions in the public services. In spite of the best efforts of a few experts, the country lacks the solid research and thorough analysis that are needed as a basis for sound courses of action."

Already one out of every 12 union members is a check or checks totaling $30, public employee. Strikes of such employees have so far occurred mainly at the local level, but it is not difficult to foresee coming confrontations in state and federal government.

Before one discusses McGeorge Bundy's obvious prediction of strikes against the U. S. government, let's look at what's really happening in New York.

Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, Local 2, AFL-CIO, after briefing most national labor leaders, went to jail for leading last fall's teachers' strike. Labor leaders with national reputations at stake staked out at the prison steps. Influential leaders of the State, County and Municipal Employees' unions were there, too. They were there, too, for how the federal arena. But for how

In this state there are some 200,000 federal employees working alongside or nearby the 600,000 state, county and municipal employees. And the federal workers are saying, in effect, as one of their leaders did the other day: "If the non-federal public employee is forced to sign an affidavit pledging not to walk out? Why should we be subject to criminal action and a felony penalty of a year and a day and $1,000 fine for striking?"

"Why should we, therefore, be subject to automatic dismissal? Why are federal workers different from state and local employees? Something will have to be done."

Apparently such men as McGeorge Bundy and many an insider believe the confrontations will come all too soon. As happened the last time, New York's crises become the nation's jitters.

By THE FLOWER BASKET CHILDHOOD FLOWERS

Which flowers do you recall from your childhood? It is surprising how many people remember the simple ones—such as the Morning Glory. Most everyone had Morning Glories, and it was common practice to run strings along the porch for them to climb. Early in the morning there was no more beautiful sight than the blue and purple morning glories in full bloom.

Other remembrance flowers are the lilac and the geranium. The geranium bloomed in abundance in pots on porches, and had a special place in the spare room during the cold winter months, and you always wondered whether they would make it through the cold days.

We can't return to our childhood, but our flowers are just as beautiful, and just as fragrant as you remember them from days gone by.

Sharon Ann Simmons Marries Sgt. Rex Davidson Jr.

CHARLESTON -- St. Henry's Catholic church was the scene Saturday for the wedding of Miss Sharon Ann Simmons, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Simmons and Sgt. Rex Davidson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson Sr., all of Charleston.

The Rev. Charles P. Schmitt officiated at the 7 p.m. service. Two large standards of white gladioli were used at the communion rail and arrangements of red poinsettias were behind the altar.

Prior to the ceremony Matt Bryant gave a program of nuptial and Christmas music. Sister Doris played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Simmons asked Miss Linda Shaw to be her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Gary Poyner, Miss Becky Renaud and Miss Christy Davidson, all of Charleston. The maid of honor floor-length dresses of ice blue with headresses to match. Each carried a white muff with red roses.

The bride, escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her brother, Douglas Simmons, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white peau de soie with scalloped and beaded sash and neckline of Alencon lace on a sculptured bodice with long tapered sleeves. The front slender skirt was lavishly appliqued with the jeweled lace with an over-skirt that swept to a chapel train.

A crystal and tiny seed pearl crown held fast the three-tiered elbow-length silk illusion veil. The groom's attendants were Terry Davidson, Tony Ohmes and Johnny Renaud. Ushers included Stephen Stricker and Mike Renaud.

Mrs. Simmons, mother of the bride, wore a green double knit suit with brown accessories. Her flowers were red roses.

Mrs. Davidson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink silk suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

THE FLOWER BASKET CHILDHOOD FLOWERS

Which flowers do you recall from your childhood? It is surprising how many people remember the simple ones—such as the Morning Glory. Most everyone had Morning Glories, and it was common practice to run strings along the porch for them to climb. Early in the morning there was no more beautiful sight than the blue and purple morning glories in full bloom.

Other remembrance flowers are the lilac and the geranium. The geranium bloomed in abundance in pots on porches, and had a special place in the spare room during the cold winter months, and you always wondered whether they would make it through the cold days.

We can't return to our childhood, but our flowers are just as beautiful, and just as fragrant as you remember them from days gone by.

Unexpected Aerial Show Anticipated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston College, the nation's 10th-ranked team, will meet Louisville, led by All-American Wesley Unselt, on the final day of the New York Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament. That was expected.

At stake will be third place in the annual ECAC event. That was not expected.

As a matter of fact, the unexpected popped up at various spots around the tournament circuit Thursday night as such powerhouses as Indiana, No. 3 in the country, and Tennessee, No. 4, were also defused a bit.

New York City basketball, known more for developing and losing the Lew Alcindors than for keeping them, enjoyed one of its finest moments at Madison Square Garden where St. John's beat Boston College for the second time this season, 60-57 and Columbia stopped Louisville 74-67.

The St. John's victory wasn't decided until the final minute when Rudy Bogard and Joe DePre put in six free throws, but it was still less nerve-racking than the Indians' 91-90 victory in overtime earlier in the season.

"I guess they're the better team," BC Coach Bob Cousy said. "Almost doesn't count."

Columbia's victory was particularly satisfying, as the Lions made up a seven-point halftime deficit. Sophomore Jim McMillan scored 24 points, though Louisville's Unselt topped all the scorers with 25.

Indiana's six-game winning streak came to a rude end in the All Sports Association tournament in Dallas, Tex., where Western Kentucky, 6-2, took the lead early and never lost it, winning 110-91.

Wayne Chapman scored 34 points for the winners and Rich Hendrick added 26.

Tennessee carried Iowa into overtime at the Los Angeles Classic, before losing its first in five games 64-59. Baskets in overtime by Dick Jensen, Sam Williams and Ron Norman won for the Hawkeyes, Williams led the scorers with 25 points.

But the road was not so rough for some of the other Top Ten teams Friday. Fifth-ranked North Carolina beat Stanford 87-78 and Utah, No. 7, edged Oregon, 64-63 in the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore.

In other tournament action Friday, St. Francis downed Duquesne 86-83 to move in the Quaker City final in Philadelphia against Temple, which beat Wisconsin 82-80. St. Joseph's, Pa., won the Gator Bowl tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., from Washington 79-74.

The University of Connecticut beat William and Mary 51-49 in the Connecticut Basketball Classic at Storrs, Conn., and TCU beat Massachusetts 66-65. Alabama won the Mobile, Ala., Classic, downing Tulane 90-83.

Brigham Young beat Xavier of Ohio 87-75 and Virginia Tech downed Idaho State 103-76 in the All College tournament at Oklahoma City, Okla. Miami won the Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Fla., beating NYU 102-91.

At the Triangle Classic in Raleigh, N.C., North Carolina State beat Army 75-60 and Georgia nipped Yale 79-75.

The last big weekend of the college football season begins Saturday, and indications are that the fan who makes a day of it in front of his television set will see passes, passes and more passes.

It will be a battle of quarterbacks all over the country as Penn State and Florida State meet in the Gator Bowl, Texas A&M and Mississippi clash in the Sun Bowl, North plays South in the Blue-Gray Game and East meets West in the Shrine Game.

Kim Hammond, who threw 140 complete passes for 1,991 yards and 15 touchdowns during the regular season, leads Florida State in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla. (ABC-TV 2 p.m., EST). Ron Sellers, Hammond's favorite target, caught 70 throws for 1,228 yards and eight touchdowns.

But the Penn State passer, Tom Sherman, is no slouch either. He hit on 104 passes for 1,615 yards and 13 touchdowns during the season. Jack Curry caught 41 of them and Ted Kwaliak hauled in 33.

In the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., to be carried on a special network of 125 television stations, the Texas-El Paso squad has a pair of passers that rank with the best around—Billy Stevens and Brooks Dawson. They threw a total of 26 touchdown passes this season.

Stevens threw six TD passes in a 47-17 rout of Brigham Young in one game and in the next contest, with Stevens hurt, Dawson threw six against New Mexico. The team led the country in scoring average and total offense.

Mississippi's quarterback Bruce Newell passed for 663 yards and six touchdowns in the last game of the season.

Unseeded Sikeston and sixth seeded Dexter do battle in the lower bracket at 8:30 p.m. tonight after posting upsets. Four teams have been upset so far. Twelve teams took .500 or better records into the event. Doniphon was the first to feel the claws of Mr. Upset but Richard, Clarkton and Kennett now have felt it. Only four teams remain.

Sikeston, the cinderella unit of the tournament, whipped Kennett convincingly last night 60-54 for its second upset. It turned back seventh ranked Clarkton in the opening round.

Matthews opened last night's play by turning on the pressure in the second half to beat back Gideon 86-56. Bloomfield fought past Malden 62-51 and Dexter upended third-seeded Richland in the finale 71-55.

Number 13 for Pirates Exploding into an early lead, the Matthews Pirates rolled up their 13th win of the season against one loss as they beat Gideon.

Gideon, however, began picking up the pieces and slipped into halftime trailing by only nine points (42-33) but failed in its second half bid as the running Pirates tired the larger Gideon unit with its razzle dazzle play and moved into a commanding lead early in the fourth period.

Leonard Bishop sped past Bulldog defenders for 17 points while teammate Amon Ring did the same. Teammates Kara Nunn and Carl Bishop dropped in 15 and 13.

Gideon's big gun was 6-6 Jerry Coleman, who shot over the Pirates shooting for 19 points. Hot Shooting Bloomfield Takes 11th

Bloomfield, behind the one two punch of Dennis Underwood and Glenn Williamson, made quick work of the upset minded Malden Green Wave last night as the little 5-8 Underwood ripped in 17 points from his guard slot while big "Rawhide" dumped in 17 from his center position.

Malden exchanged leads with the Wildcats until the final minute of the first period when the Cats ripped in four straight points to shoot into a 13-9 first period lead and never trail.

The Wildcats shot a blistering 47 per cent from the field and got five men into the scoring column for the first while the Greenwave shot a dismal 34 per cent from the field and missed a number

We upped our percentage from 77 per cent to 82 with nine of ten basketball game calls last night, falling on the Dexter-Richland game. We hit on two upset calls of Sikeston and Quinn. It makes this prognosticator beam.

But, . . . as we stare at our situation for tonight, . . . our beam gets a little dimmer and we fret that this is where anyway we turn could be wrong. . . but we'll stick with it and give you what we think.

By the way, . . . we have hit on 23 of 28, . . . nine of ten last night for .821. . . a hefty average for such talent filled tournaments.

We're going into our trance now . . . but all I see is smoke, . . . generated by my office buddies. . . Leo Schade and Warren Sokolis, who have me surrounded with pipe smoke. . . That's and idea . . . try one of those mystic pipes. . . Well now . . . anyway smoke gets in our eyes and makes it difficult to see with them six feet away. . . getting the pipes closer would only make things worse. . . we'll stick with our feelings.

Here they are. . . . . Bloomfield Tournament Matthews vs. Bloomfield . . . . . Upset. . . Upset. . . It happened one night last season. . . when the two met in the finals of this annual affair. . . It's just coming one day earlier. Bloomfield 41, Matthews 38.

Sikeston vs. Dexter . . . . . We wish we could say upset here. . . or do we. . . it would be an upset if the Bearcats trim the Bulldogs since they have staggered the Kennett Indians. Sikeston's point spread could be greater if they could hit free throws. . . Putting in only 12 of 34 during the night. . . the majority of those misses on one and one situations. Townes will again prove the difference. . . Sikeston 73, Dexter 67.

Cape Girardeau Tournament Notre Dame vs. Charleston . . . . . Why not. . . Charleston will end an undefeated record tonight as Ruben Brown and Co. pull the third upset of the night. Charleston will corral All-State star Greg Flaker. . . Charleston 69, Notre Dame 63.

Oran vs. Scott Central . . . . . What a game! . . . Oran is after this one and will take it. . . Scott Central has already won its game over the Eagles and it's the Eagles turn to hand it a defeat. . . Last night's rough game with Delta will not help the Braves chances any tonight. Oran 71, Scott Central 62.

Southland vs. Delta C-7 . . . . . Well. . . We will not go as far as call an upset in this contest. . . but . . . we will say that the Rebels will have their hands full. Delta C-7 has the potential and might turn the trick but we think not yet. Southland 57, Delta C-7 54.

South Pemiscot vs. Quinn . . . . . Let's stay with Quinn in the game. . . the Tigers did with us last night and therefore we say it's time for another upset. . . Ha, upset, Quinn 49, south Pemiscot 48.

That's that for now. . . until tomorrow. . . it's a good upset to you.

Cape Girardeau Notre Dame high rolled into the semi-finals behind the 30-point performance of All-State Greg Flaker last night as it maintained its undefeated record.

Notre Dame had to battle from a first period deficit and did that with a 24-point second period. The Indians failed to keep up with the Bulldog's fierce offensive attack as it filtered against their defense.

Billy Lewis with 17 points topped Jackson scorers, who had three in twin-figures. Jackson's scoring success came mostly on its free throw accuracy, netting 24 of 35 as Notre Dame rolled 20 times.

Braves Battle Past Delta Scott County Central narrowly escaped defeat as it battled past a determined Delta Bobcat group.

Central, led by Fred Maney's 18 points and 17 rebounds scored 22 and 25 in the second and fourth periods as it fought off a battling Bobcat group led by Ronnie Cook's 19 points.

Central felt back 17-44 in the first period but rallied for a 36-33 half lead. It went into the final period 45-44 and held as Delta ran into a cold wave late in the final period after it twice west ahead.

Quilin Scores First Upset At Senath

SENATH -- Quilin scored the first upset of the eighth annual senath-jornersville invitational basketball tournament last night in the second game after South Pemiscot held with its second-seeded by whipping Campbell 65-44.

Quilin posted a 63-61 win over North Pemiscot after the mustangs of coach David McMahon lost five players from the game by fouls as they took an assessment of 33 to the Tigers 16.

The Bulldogs of South Pemiscot rolled up a 16-11 first period lead and then rolled behind the eight-man scoring attack led by James Kifer's 16 and three other double figure scorers.

Campbell had only one player notch scores in double figures, John Wilson, who took high game honors by adding up 17.

Although North Pemiscot collected 33 fouls the Quilin Tigers only capitalized on 15 of those chances, but stayed in contention by hitting one less field goal than did the Mustangs, who hit four 11 free throws as the Tigers drew 16 personals.

Morris Fischer topped North Pemiscot scorers with 15 points, aided by three other teammates in twin figures.

Quilin went ahead with a 36-point second half as the Mustangs scored on 25 points.

Tonight's action begins at 6:30 p.m. with Southland meeting Delta C-7 at 6:30 p.m., followed at 8 p.m. by the Quilin South Pemiscot match.

Unexpected Aerial Show Anticipated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Boston College, the nation's 10th-ranked team, will meet Louisville, led by All-American Westley Unsell, on the final day of the New York Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament. That was expected.
At stake will be third place in the annual ECAC event. That was not expected.
As a matter of fact, the unexpected popped up at various spots around the tournament circuit Thursday night as such powerhouses as Indiana, No. 3 in the country, and Tennessee, No. 4, were also defeated a bit.
New York City basketball, known more for developing and losing the Lew Alcindors than for keeping them, enjoyed one of its finest moments at Madison Square Garden where St. John's beat Boston College for the second time this season, 60-57 and Columbia stopped Louisville 74-67.
The St. John's victory wasn't decided until the final minute when Rudy Bogard and Joe DePre put in six free throws, but it was still less nerve-wracking than the Indians' 91-90 victory in overtime earlier in the season.
"I guess they're the better team," BC Coach Bob Cousy said. "Almost doesn't count."
Columbia's victory was particularly satisfying, as the Lions made up a seven-point halftime deficit. Sophomore Jim McMillan scored 24 points, though Louisville's Unsell topped all the scorers with 25.
Indiana's six-game winning streak came to a rude end in the All Sports Association tournament in Dallas, Tex., where Western Kentucky, 6-2, took the lead early and never lost it, winning 110-91.
Wayne Chapman scored 34 points for the winners and Rich Hendrick added 26.
Tennessee carried Iowa into overtime at the Los Angeles Classic, before losing its first in five games 64-59. Baskets in overtime by Dick Jensen, Sam Williams and Ron Norman won for the Hawkeyes. Williams led the scorers with 25 points.

We upped our percentage from 77 per cent to 82 with nine of ten basketball game calls last night, failing on the Dexter-Richland game. We hit on two upset calls of Sikeston and Quilin. It makes this prognosticator beam.
But...as we stare at our situation for tonight...our beam gets a little dimmer and we fret that this in any way we turn could be wrong...but we'll stick with it and give you what we think.
By the way...we have hit on 23 of 28...nine of ten last night for .821...a hefty average for such talent filled tournaments.

Top Four Move Into Semi's

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The top four seeded teams of the 23rd annual College high holiday invitational basketball tournament made their way into the semifinals, where action begins at 7 p.m. tonight.
Fourth-seeded Charleston and third-seeded Scott County Central had to battle down to the wire to post their wins. Their opponents, Howardville and Delta, aimed to upset the seeded units but failed in their late fourth-period try.
Charleston opened yesterday's activity with a 65-63 victory over Howardville and Oran trampled Cape Girardeau Central 72-44 in the second game as the second seeded Eagles waltzed into the semifinals.
Top seeded Notre Dame struggled from a 16-12 first period deficit to overhaul Jackson 71-56 and Scott Central fought off Delta 70-62.
Notre Dame goes against Charleston in the 7 p.m. semifinal opener tonight followed at 8:30 p.m. by the re-match of Oran and Scott Central. Central is the only conqueror of Oran, accomplished in the Eagles invitational tournament.
CLEMONS TAKES UP SLACK
Howardville passed up a possible tie game as it missed four shots in the final seconds against Charleston, which moments earlier went ahead on a 10-foot basket.
Charleston's Ruben Brown got into foul trouble with four personals in the second period and saw limited action in the remainder of the half. The Jays fell back to a 32-29 deficit at intermission only to surge back into the lead.
Winning seemed dim for the Jays after their ace rebounder and scorer called it a night but the fiery work of teammate John Clemons paved the way for the victory. The speedster rambled for 21 points in leading the Jays to a 36-point second half while the tightly guarded Hawks forced only 31 points in.
Clemons led the game scoring and got assistance from teammates Brown and Ingram who added 11 each.
Nathaniel Thomas netted 19 points to top the Hawks bid.
Oran Rolls On
Fred Johnson continued to pace the Oran Eagles scoring in the tournament. He netted 19 in leading them past Cape Central. Oran's devastating press and stingy defense held the Tigers in check from the start as Central fell back 19-6 in the first period and never posed a threat as the Eagles rolled up number 12.
Oran ripped the nets for 31 field goals while holding Central to 15 as they limited the Tigers to double figure scoring in two of their four periods.
Cape was led by Roger Beauden's 17 points as it bowed out after turning back Patton by one point Wednesday night.
Flaker Nets 30
Cape Girardeau Notre Dame high roller into the semi-finals behind the 30-point performance of All-State Greg Flaker last night as it maintained its undefeated record.
Notre Dame had to battle from a first period deficit and did that with a 24-point second period. The Indians failed to keep up with the Bulldogs' fierce offensive attack as it faltered against their defense.
Billy Lewis with 17 points topped Jackson scorers, who had three in twin-figures. Jackson's scoring success came mostly on its free throw accuracy, netting 24 of 35 as Notre Dame fouled 20 times.
Braves Battle Past Delta
Scott County Central narrowly escaped defeat as it battled past a determined Delta Bobcat group.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

The GOP's Favorite Sons May Play Key Role in '68

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Confusion seems to be building over the role the many prospective Republican "favorite sons" may try to play—or be forced into—in the 1968 presidential nomination fight.

Included in the likely lineup, of course, are such men as Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, John Volpe of Massachusetts, Claude Kirk of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, and Senators Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Some party professional sources, mostly moderate types, are saying that the 1968 situation will stay fluid enough to permit the nomination of Rockefeller by the GOP convention at Miami Beach if some of the listed favorite sons can be held in a sort of loose confederation until then.

On the other hand, it has been tossed out that a Richard Nixon, on a possible winning course, might try to brush some of the favorite sons down like ten-pins and collect them and their delegates in an irresistible push to the nomination.

First off, it can be stated categorically that Richard Nixon does not intend to enter a single big-state presidential primary where a major favorite son is in prospect.

The indications that he might try to bulldoze the key favorite sons came as a rather accidental happening. Nixon agents moved swiftly to inform them that these signs were not the true ones.

The impression left by the first reports may not, however, prove altogether helpful. Some of the favorite sons in question, including Rhodes, Shafer and Volpe, are already in a skeptical frame of mind with respect to Nixon.

At least a few party figures believe that these and other GOP leaders will, in fact, keep their large delegations uncommitted until nearly convention eve, and that they will supply the crucial nucleus and much of the delegate mass needed to put over Rockefeller as 1968 nominee.

History is not exactly on the side of these forecasters. Favorite sons tend to melt away in the heat of preconvention pressures which build for the front-runner who may be winning primaries and piling up delegates in a host of state conventions. If either Nixon or Reagan should get into that strong lead position by early next summer, it will not be easy for the favorite sons to stay in a resisting coalition.

Yet it is abundantly clear that many governors and other likely favorite sons might like to keep their huge blocks of delegates (just about enough to stop anybody from nomination) off the candidate market until the balloting begins.

Their problem may be how to stay "fluid," in the face of possible front-runner heat, without some positive encouragement working from the presently reluctant Rockefeller and leaders working unmistakably in his behalf.

Some party men say Rockefeller's only hope is to do nothing and have nothing done for him until the last minute. But politics is motion. Somebody else may be nominated while some favorite sons and others are engaged in strategic inaction.

Comedians Short on Sketches

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the top younger comedians by sheer coincidence—and the acute shortage of subjects to get funny about—used the same topic as the basis for a sketch in variety programs Wednesday night.

The comedians were—in order of appearance—Woody Allen in a "Music Hall" revue on NBC and Jonathan Winters in the premiere of his CBS weekly variety show. The subject was miniskirts, worn respectively by Liza Minnelli and Abby Dalton, both playing the wives of the male stars.

Although the treatments of the subjects were quite different, the basic joke in both sketches was identical, and were summed up in a line given to Abby Dalton: "Men want every girl in the world to dress like Joe Fonda, except their wife."

Winters' opening program was a well-paced mixture of sketches and in the first one he successfully pulled out of storage his grand old lady, Maudie Fickett.

Winters has a gimmick in which he is given a single prop and improvises around it. He has done it a number of times before on television and it is always interesting if not always a complete success. His prop Wednesday night was a towel and he did pretty well.

Members of the television audience, most likely, will either adore the Winters' brand of outrageous humor or they will be left cold. He was cushioned considerably on the first show by the presence of dependable Red Skelton and attractive Barbara Eden. The series may work out pretty well as it shakes down and people get a chance to accustom themselves to Winters.

Woody Allen's alleged "Review of 1967" was a bright funny hour that didn't review much of anything but was notable for Allen's debut on television playing assorted characters in sketches. And Allen, the actor, is pretty good and pretty funny whether he is the outraged spouse of the girl in her first miniskirt or a spoiled child movie star having a tantrum.

The plot of the movie star sketch, incidentally, was an aged child star running for the Senate, a pretty tired subject. Earlier this week Jimmy Durante wrapped the whole thing up in a single sentence when he was talking to little Anissa Jones on "Hollywood Palace." "I better talk nice to this one," he said. "Who knows? Next year she may be my congressman."

Allen's hour had one strange interlude when the star sat down with William F. Buckley Jr., a conservative politician and writer, and engaged in a battle of wisecracks. Some of the exchanges suggested there was a prewritten script and some of the "questions from the audience" certainly were planted. Allen, for instance, asked Buckley if he thought Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would ever be president.

"Yes," said Buckley, quick as a flash, "if he can get all the Kennedys to vote for him."

Allen who after all was a comedy writer before he was a performer came off much better in this portion than the amateur—his lines were better and his delivery superb.

Poor Trash Service Prompts Man to Dump His on Mayor's Lawn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Baldwin, a 26-year-old drug salesman, said his trash wasn't picked up for two weeks, so he thought he'd leave it where it would be outside the mayor's house.

Since he did so, said Baldwin, he's been visited by policemen, all inquiring about his trash disposal methods.

For the past two weeks, Baldwin said today, his trash was not picked up, although he made several telephone calls to city officials about it.

He and a friend wrapped up four cartons of trash Tuesday night and drove four miles to where Mayor James H. J. Tate lives, Baldwin said he had heard trashmen never miss a pickup in the mayor's block.

He said two policemen assigned to guard the mayor's home warned them not to leave the trash. They left it anyway. Nothing further was said.

"What do you do with trash that the department won't collect?" Baldwin asked.

Care Needed in Building of Sewer Lagoons

COLUMBIA — Sewer oxidation lagoons are birth places of more than 60 different insects, most of them nuisances and some health hazards.

But if the lagoons are properly constructed and managed, few problems will develop.

That is the conclusion of Dr. Wilbur R. Enns, professor of entomology at the University of Missouri, Columbia, after a three-year study.

The lagoons are one answer to high cost of sewage disposal plants. They are being used increasingly in municipalities — even metropolitan St. Louis and Kansas City have some — and on farms. Lagoons are popular in cities that cannot afford expensive sewage disposal plants; they are used temporarily in new metropolitan developments to which sewer lines have not yet been extended; they are replacing septic tanks and out-houses on farms; and they are being constructed in greater numbers of livestock feed lots.

Dr. Enns and his students studied 18 lagoons in the central Missouri area under a Public Health Service grant to determine problems with insects associated with lagoons.

Even some of the best constructed and managed lagoons produce odors and some annoying insects, but proper construction and management can keep problems at an annoying rather than serious level, he said.

Of the 60 insects found around lagoons in the Central Missouri area, midges were the most numerous. In fact, 12 different species of this small fly or gnat are produced around lagoons, with three species predominating.

Of the three species, one infested lagoons about 18 months old with a relatively light waste water load. This midge reproduced by the thousands, with one count ranging as high to a weighable 16,000 larvae per square foot of lagoon bottom.

In lagoons three years old and loaded to a designed capacity, fewer midges of this type were found, but two other species built up in numbers. In heavily overloaded six-year old lagoons, the two species built up heavily, while the midge that likes the younger, less-used lagoons decreased appreciably in number. Midges themselves can become a problem to nearby homes as residents of a northeast Missouri city learned. Two white-painted houses near adjacent lagoons became black in color from millions of midges that spread from the lagoon. University entomologists were called in. They found that the midges were being produced by the millions in one of the two lagoons that was used but little. Insecticides reduced the infestation, and more adequate use of the second lagoon eliminated the problem.

Dr. Enns pointed out that such midges become more than an annoyance if they spread to newly painted homes, where they must be scraped off and another coat of paint applied. Their flying range, however, is limited, although with favorable winds they can travel up to a mile from a lagoon location.

Generally speaking the public is more concerned about mosquitoes than midges that are associated with lagoons. Dr. Enns said that well-managed lagoons do not produce mosquitoes. Of 12 different species of mosquito were found to breed in them. Most of the production was not in lagoons themselves, but down stream in water oxidized and flowed away from the treatment area.

Consequently he believes that a good "getaway" for the effluent is necessary. Effluent that flows into a flat area, forming pools and puddles, produces mosquitoes by the thousands, including two or three that are responsible for spreading the "St. Louis" and "western" types of encephalitis.

The getaway areas can't be spray-treated without incurring the hazard of causing fish kill or other damaging acts downstream from the lagoons, he said. The getaway, of course, is part of management and proper construction and supervision can reduce or eliminate problems.

In lagoons themselves, an oil spray may be used to kill mosquito larvae, but danger results from sprays on areas where the effluent is flowing and the oil reduces the action of the lagoon.

Dr. Enns said that the lagoons should be no deeper than five feet to permit sunlight to penetrate to the pond bed and encourage algae and bacteria to destroy and purify the sewage. Moreover, grass should be mowed to the very edge of the water, and no grass or weeds should be permitted to grow in the lagoon itself. Overhanging grass from lagoon banks, and grass or weeds growing in lagoons, encourage breeding of mosquitoes and other insects.

Some municipalities have introduced mosquito-fish to help destroy larvae and insects in lagoons. The fish are successful, unless the lagoon is frozen in the winter. Freezing shuts off oxygen and kills fish. Some cities regard this as an annual expense, and restock lagoons with mosquito-fish each spring.

For lagoons on livestock feedlots, experts have yet to come up with engineering recommendations as minutely as they have for lagoons dealing with human waste. They are still working on the problem. They know the volume, but economic feasibility is something else. Feed lots now are blamed for much of the downstream pollution of creeks and rivers. Previously farm fertilizer on crop land was held mostly responsible. Properly engineered lagoons for feedlots could offer a solution to stream pollution, experts believe.

Join in Physics Teacher Program

COLUMBIA — The University of Missouri and William Jewell College of Liberty will continue a summer program for high school physics teachers during the 1968 summer session.

The National Science Foundation grant of $55,010 is lower than it has been for the past three years, but Dr. Louis V. Holroyd, professor of physics at the University, said that carry-over funds will permit starting a new program for 16 junior high school physical science teachers at William Jewell in addition to the advance physics program for 16 high school teachers in Columbia.

Last year 105 high school teachers and 16 high school science students were enrolled in the physics programs on St. Louis University, William Jewell, and Columbia and Rolla campuses of the University. Dr. Holroyd said that by the end of 1968 two-thirds of the high school physics teachers in the state will have participated in the programs, designed to upgrade science teaching in secondary schools.

The physical science program at William Jewell is being inaugurated at request of the Missouri Department of Education with a view of providing a better science background for students entering high schools. The courses will be offered the junior high instructors between June 17 and July 26 at Liberty.

The physics program in Columbia will extend from June 10 to Aug. 2 and will include, as it has in the past, summer studies in physics for 16 selected high school students as well as the advanced study for high school teachers.

Teachers in both programs will receive stipends, $75 a week at Liberty and $600 for the summer at Columbia, with both groups getting dependency and travel allowances. The high school students selected may enroll at the University without paying tuition.

Sergeants Freed by Reds May Reenlist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of the three Army sergeants freed in November after lengthy imprisonment by the Communists in Vietnam have shown interest in signing up for new hitch, the Army says.

An Army spokesman said Wednesday M. Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif., and M. Sgt. Daniel L. Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., expressed interest in reenlistment soon after their return to this country but have not made formal decisions.

The Army spokesman said the men after arriving Wednesday, other returnees, S. Sgt. James E. Jackson of Talcott, W. Va., may reenlist for adoption as the national flower.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

The GOP's Favorite Sons May Play Key Role in '68

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Confusion seems to be building over the role the many prospective Republican "favorite sons" may try to play—or be forced into—in the 1968 presidential nomination fight.

Included in the likely lineup, of course, are such men as Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, John Volpe of Massachusetts, Claude Kirk of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, and Senators Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Some party professional sources, mostly moderate types, are saying that the 1968 situation will stay fluid enough to permit the nomination of Rockefeller by the GOP convention at Miami Beach if some of the listed favorite sons can be held in a sort of loose confederation until then.

On the other hand, it has been tossed out that a Richard Nixon, on a possible winning course, might try to brush some of the favorite sons down like ten-pins and collect them and their delegates in an irresistible push to the nomination.

First off, it can be stated categorically that Richard Nixon does not intend to enter a single big-state presidential primary where a major favorite son is in prospect.

The indications that he might try to bulldoze the key favorite sons came as a rather accidental happening. Nixon agents moved swiftly to inform them that these signs were not the true ones.

The impression left by the first reports may not, however, prove altogether helpful. Some of the favorite sons in question, including Rhodes, Shafer and Volpe, are already in a skeptical frame of mind with respect to Nixon.

At least a few party figures believe that these and other GOP leaders will, in fact, keep their large delegations uncommitted until nearly convention eve, and that they will supply the crucial nucleus and much of the delegate mass needed to put over Rockefeller as 1968 nominee.

History is not exactly on the side of these forecasters. Favorite sons tend to melt away in the heat of pre-convention pressures which build for the front-runner who may be winning primaries and piling up delegates in a host of state conventions. If either Nixon or Reagan should get into that strong lead position by early next summer, it will not be easy for the favorite sons to stay in a resisting coalition.

Yet it is abundantly clear that many governors and other likely favorite sons might like to keep their huge blocks of delegates (just about enough to stop anybody from nomination) off the candidate market until the balloting begins.

Their problem may be how to stay "fluid," in the face of possible front-runner heat, without some positive encouragement from the presently reluctant Rockefeller and leaders working unmissably in his behalf.

Some party men say Rockefeller's only hope is to do nothing and have nothing done for him until the last minute. But politics is motion. Somebody else may be nominated while some favorite sons and others are engaged in strategic inaction.

Woody Allen's alleged "Review of 1967" was a bright funny hour that didn't review much of anything but was notable for Allen's debut on television playing assorted characters in sketches. And Allen, the actor, is pretty good and pretty funny whether he was the outraged spouse of the girl in her first minkskirt or a spoiled child movie star having a tantrum.

The plot of the movie star sketch, incidentally, was an aged child star running for the Senate, a pretty tired subject. Earlier this week Jimmy Durante wrapped the whole thing up in a single sentence when he was talking to little Anissa Jones on "Hollywood Palace," "I better talk nice to this one," he said, "Who knows? Next year she may be my congress-man."

Allen's hour had one strange interlude when the star sat down with William F. Buckley Jr., a conservative politician and writer, and engaged in a battle of wisecracks. Some of the exchanges suggested there was a prewritten script and some of the "questions from the audience" certainly were planted. Allen, for instance, asked Buckley if he thought Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would ever be president.

"Yes," said Buckley, quick as a flash, "if he can get all the Kennedy votes to vote for him."

Allen who after all was a comedy writer before he was a performer came off much better in this portion than the amateur his lines were better and his delivery superb.

Thorpe Chief Of Operations At Selfridge

SELFTRIDGE AIR FORCE BASE, Mich. — Maj. Robert G. Thorpe, a veteran of more than 4,000 flying hours, has assumed the position of chief of base operations and training.

He came to Selfridge from Wright-Patterson AFB, where he was a flight commander, assigned to the 445th fighter interceptor squadron.

Major Thorpe is married to the former Pansy French of Sikeston, Mo., daughter of Ernest French of Portageville, Mo., and Mary Webber of Sikeston.

Major Thorpe is a native of Hillsboro, Wis. He has served more than 19 years including a year in Vietnam, returning in November of 1964. He served in Germany between August of 1948 and March of 1952.

During his career the major has flown fighters, interceptors and bombers. He flew the B-47 while stationed at Lincoln AFB, Neb., from October 1959 to August 1963.

His decorations include the air medal with nine oak leaf clusters, the Vietnamese service medal, outstanding unit award, Republic of Vietnam award, combat readiness award, and the military humane action award as a crew member while serving in Germany during the Berlin airlift.

Major Thorpe and his wife live with their three children, Mary Kimberly, 8; Robert Jr., 6; and James, 1, at 48281 Brooks.

Poor Trash Service Prompts Man to Dump His on Mayor's Lawn

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—John Baldwin, a 26-year-old drug salesman, said his trash wasn't picked up for two weeks, so he thought he'd leave it where it would be—outside the mayor's house.

Since he did so, said Baldwin, he's been visited by policemen, all inquiring about his trash disposal methods.

For the past two weeks, Baldwin said today, his trash was not picked up, although he made several telephone calls to city officials about it.

He and a friend wrapped up four cartons of trash Tuesday night and drove four miles to where Mayor James H. J. Tate lives. Baldwin said he had heard trashmen never miss a pickup in the mayor's block.

He said two policemen assigned to guard the mayor's home warned them not to leave the trash. They left it anyway.

"What do you do with trash that the department won't collect?" Baldwin asked.

Care Needed in Building of Sewer Lagoons

COLUMBIA — Sewer oxidation lagoons are birth places of more than 60 different insects, most of them nuisances and some health hazards.

But if the lagoons are properly constructed and managed, few problems will develop.

That is the conclusion of Dr. Wilbur R. Enns, professor of entomology at the University of Missouri, Columbia, after a three-year study.

The lagoons are one answer to high cost of sewage disposal plants. They are being used increasingly in municipalities — even metropolitan St. Louis and Kansas City have some — and on farms. Lagoons are popular in cities that cannot afford expensive sewage disposal plants; they are used temporarily in new metropolitan developments to which sewer lines have not yet been extended; they are replacing septic tanks and out-houses on farms; and they are being constructed in greater numbers of livestock feed lots.

Of the three species, one infested lagoons about 18 months old with a relatively light waste water load. This midge reproduced by the thousands, with one count ranging as high as a weighable 16,000 larvae per square foot of lagoon bottom.

In lagoons three years old and loaded to a designed capacity, fewer midges of this type were found, but two other species built up in numbers. In heavily over-loaded six-year old lagoons, the two species built up heavily, while the midge that likes the younger, less-used lagoons decreased appreciably in number. Midges themselves can become a problem to nearby homes as residents of a northeast Missouri city learned. Two white-painted houses near adjacent lagoons became black in color from millions of midges that spread from the lagoon. University entomologists were called in. Insecticides reduced the infestation, and more adequate use of the second lagoon eliminated the problem.

Comedians Short on Sketches

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the top younger comedians by sheer coincidence—and the acute shortage of subjects to get funny about—used the same topic as the basis for a sketch in variety programs Wednesday night.

The comedians were—in order of appearance—Woody Allen in a "Music Hall" revue on NBC and Jonathan Winters in the premiere of his CBS weekly variety show. The subject was miniskirts, worn respectively by Liza Minnelli and Abby Dalton, both playing the wives of the male stars.

Although the treatments of the subjects were quite different, the basic joke in both sketches was identical, and were summed up in a line given to Abby Dalton: "Men want every girl in the world to dress like Jane Fonda, except their wife."

Winters' opening program was a well-paced mixture of sketches and in the first one he successfully pulled out of storage his grand old lady, Maudie Fickett.

Winters has a gimmick in which he is given a single prop and improvises around it. He has done it a number of times before on television and it is always interesting if not always a complete success. His prop Wednesday night was a towel and he did pretty well.

Members of the television audience, most likely, will either adore the Winters' brand of outrageous humor or they will be left cold. He was cushioned considerably on the first show by the presence of dependable Red Skelton and attractive Barbara Eden. The series may work out pretty well as it shakes down and people get a chance to accustom themselves to Winters.

Maine Takes Steps to Combat Lobster Decline

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Aided by ideas from aerospace industries, the State of Maine is laying scientific groundwork to turn the tide on Mother Nature and stem a declining lobster supply.

Experts claim a gradual drop in ocean temperature over the past few years has caused the annual Maine lobster catch to dwindle. They have chosen a first experimental site to see if shoreline coves can be warmed artificially by discharge from power plant coolant systems.

If successful, other coves along the northeastern United States coastline may be heated to improve the over-all lobster crop.

"We propose to apply in the field information we have gained over the last 20 years," said Robert L. Dow, director of research for the Maine Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries. "We think we have enough background to develop information on how lobsters could be produced in greater number at reduced cost."

Ideally, the average annual temperature for Maine lobsters, Dow said in an interview, is between 47½ and 49½ degrees. For 1967, however, the average

Asian Flu Reported in 24 States

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The National Communicable Disease Center reports outbreaks of Asian Flu and similar respiratory infections in 24 states and the District of Columbia but says the mortality rate does not appear to be unusually higher.

New York City health officials said the death rate there is higher than usual. There were 100 such deaths for the week ending Dec. 22, the New York officials said, and the tolerance zone for deaths from influenza and pneumonia for the week in the state is 88.

It is difficult, health officials say, to measure the seriousness of the outbreaks throughout the nation because schools are closed during the holidays. Schools usually are the best means of determining the rate of absenteeism.

The virus appears to be relatively mild in most instances, but health officials say this creates a problem.

"Most of the cases are so mild that people simply won't go to bed," said Dr. John E. McCroan of the Georgia Health Department. "They are walking around, spreading the bug around."

An estimated 15,000 cases have been reported in North Georgia with most of them in metropolitan Atlanta.

Documentation of Asian Flu has been made in Michigan, Florida, New Jersey, Alabama, New York, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa and Georgia, the CDC says. Probable Asian Flu has been reported in Indiana, Virginia, Wisconsin, Louisiana and Missouri and possible Asian Flu has been noted in Ohio, Maryland, Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina and the District of Columbia.

Some increase in pneumonia and other respiratory diseases has been reported, but national health officials say pneumonia deaths are compiled with influenza deaths.

They say, however, that most of the illnesses are attributed to Asian Flu, which swept the West Coast in February 1966 and the eastern parts of the nation in the winter of 1965.

The CDC said this strain of flu has changed slightly and will be different in current epidemics. Dr. Stephen C. Schonbaum said flu vaccines also must be changed each year by their manufacturers.

water temperature will be between 44½ and 45 degrees, he predicted.

Scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology blame the cooler offshore waters on a change in solar activity, which has shifted zonal westerly winds to lower latitudes. They claim it may be another 20 years until a warming trend begins.

"The cooler water has not only affected lobsters," Dow said, "but other shellfish—oysters, clams, shrimp and scallops. And it is not only peculiar to Maine. Other Northeastern states and Canada have had similar problems."

Statistics tell the story. In 1957, Maine's lobster catch totaled 24½ million pounds. In 1965, it was down to 19 million pounds. Dow predicted the 1967 total will be about 15 million pounds.

The large marine crustaceans grow by shedding their shells. But they "molt"—or grow—less often in colder water. As a result, there are fewer lobsters around of legal size, Dow explained.

In an experiment to see if the tide can be turned against Mother Nature and in favor of lobster fishermen, the Maine Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries is considering plans to raise the water temperature in a cove on Cousins Island, Casco Bay, by distributing heated water discharged from the coolant system of a nearby power plant.

Heated water from the plant now rises to the surface of the cove, the director noted. The problem will be to distribute this heat so temperatures on the bottom are suited to the comfort and happiness of the lobster population there to promote molting, growth and reproduction. Only a few degrees change from the present water temperature would be necessary for this to occur, officials said.

U.S. Prepares Hospitals for Viet Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — The United States is preparing three hospitals with a total of 800 beds and staffing them with American military doctors and nurses to help care for the thousands of civilian victims of the Vietnam war, high U.S. officials disclosed today.

Civilian casualties are mounting—one American expert estimates them at 100,000 this year—and Vietnamese hospitals are unable to care for many of them.

The U.S. officials said American military hospitals since last March have been authorized to accept as many wounded civilians as they have room for, and about 300 a month have been treated. Some civilians had been treated even before that, they added.

A 300-bed civilian hospital at Tuy Hoa, entirely staffed by U.S. military doctors, nurses and orderlies, will open in a few days, the officials said.

A second hospital, with 200 beds, is expected to be completed at Chu Lai before the end of January. A third hospital, at Can Tho in the Mekong Delta, is expected to open in late spring with 500 beds for U.S. soldiers and 300 for civilians.

The first two hospitals are being converted from existing U.S. military facilities, while the Can Tho facility is a new structure. The space-available admissions at other U.S. hospitals are to continue.

The building of the Can Tho hospital indicates that U.S. officials expect increased fighting in the delta, and a consequent increase in both military and civilian casualties.

Swedes Unsure How to Handle U.S. Deserters

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish government is considering what to do with four young U.S. Navy deserters who jumped ship in Japan to protest American involvement in the Vietnam war and came to Sweden from Moscow seeking asylum.

Informants indicated that the four probably would be accepted by Sweden, but there was a chance they might be returned to Moscow.

Police took the bearded quartet to a police station to check their papers as soon as they stepped from a Scandinavian airliner early today.

Authorities said the youths left Moscow without applying for visas. They are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md., Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif., and Michael A. Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

"They have put us in a rather unusual situation," said one official. "Usually political refugees claim they have been subjected to persecution in the country they fled from. But as far as we know, the Americans have been treated well in the Soviet Union."

The young Americans quit the aircraft carrier Intrepid in Yokosuka, Japan, in October while it was there on leave from Vietnam duty. Japanese pacifists smuggled them out of the country, and they arrived in Moscow early in November. They criticized U.S. actions in Vietnam in appearances on Soviet television and with the Soviet press, but Western newsmen in Moscow were not allowed to interview them.

A member of the diplomatic colony in Moscow who encountered the sailors by chance said they were "fed up with Russia" and were anxious to reach Sweden.

The Swedish Committee for Vietnam, which opposes American participation in the war, said the sailors had appealed for help and that temporary housing had been arranged for them with Swedish families.

The four do not have American passports but have been issued Red Cross documents.

Food Stamp Program Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orange and blue bills that look like play money are helping 2.6 million needy Americans buy nearly $1 million worth of food every day.

Known as food stamps, by June 30 they'll be circulating in 1,200 areas of 43 states and Washington, D.C., including 8 of the nation's 10 most populous cities.

Backers of the stamp program call it the most promising approach yet to the goal of putting better food on the poor man's table without making it a handout.

Nobody gets food stamps for free. The poor pay for them, swapping cash for stamps worth many dollars more.

Some find it a little cold-blooded that the government extracts money from those it professes to help.

But Congress shows its approval by giving the Agriculture Department a bigger budget for stamps every year—$185 million for the current fiscal year, up from $116.3 million last year.

"We've got to get away from this idea of giving the poor everything we think they need," said Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., the stamp program's best friend on Capitol Hill.

"In this program the people are taught how to spend their money," she said. "As little as it is, they learn to budget it."

Mrs. Sullivan and others badgered the Eisenhower administration for a stamp program through much of the 1950s. It had too much of a welfare state aroma about it to suit Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Snowstorm Sweeps East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wind-driven snowstorm swept through the Northeast today, burying many inland sections in knee-deep snow and pelting some fringe areas with rain, sleet and freezing rain.

The storm extended into New England after a quick sweep across the South Thursday.

The Virginia highlands and western Maryland were hobbled by up to a foot and a half of snow. Northwestern Pennsylvania and northern Upstate New York were patted with foot-deep snows during the night.

Gale warnings flew along the Atlantic Coast and the brisk winds ranged far inland. Travelers warnings were in effect for a wide area.

The Weather Bureau indicated the snow piled up at the rate of an inch an hour in parts of Pennsylvania, New York and New England through the night. Depths of 8 to 9 inches were common from the Virginias northeastward into Maine.

Many coastal sections escaped the brunt of the snow, or had it washed away quickly by rain. But cooler nighttime temperatures turned the moisture to sleet and freezing rain. Residents of southeastern Pennsylvania

The Rev. Homer Gail Crisman has advice on how to become an expert on South America. He says, "Stay 70 years." For the 92-year-old minister himself has spent 70 years in Ecuador and Colombia for the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

In 1897, Mr. Crisman arrived in Ecuador as one of the first Alliance missionaries to that country after its citizens had been given freedom of religion. But even though the missionaries were accepted by the government there was much opposition and at times even physical threat. In those days, Mr. Crisman traveled constantly for hundreds of miles either on foot or by horseback, visiting remote villages, setting up churches and schools and working with the Indians.

Mr. Crisman no longer makes the long hard trips but is still active in aiding the Spanish literature ministry and the book store and in Bible distribution operated by the Alliance mission there. Mr. Crisman says: "... After 70 years of serving Him in South America, I only wish I had another life to lay at His feet."

Maine Takes Steps to Combat Lobster Decline

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Aided by ideas from aerospace industries, the State of Maine is laying scientific groundwork to turn the tide on Mother Nature and stem a declining lobster supply.

Experts claim a gradual drop in ocean temperature over the past few years has caused the annual Maine lobster catch to dwindle. They have chosen a first experimental site to see if shoreline coves can be warmed artificially by discharge from power plant coolant systems.

If successful, other coves along the northeastern United States coastline may be heated to improve the over-all lobster crop.

"We propose to apply in the field information we have gained over the last 20 years," said Robert L. Dow, director of research for the Maine Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries. "We think we have enough background to develop information on how lobsters could be produced in greater number at reduced cost."

Ideally, the average annual temperature for Maine lobsters, Dow said in an interview, is between 47½ and 49½ degrees. For 1967, however, the average

Food Stamp Program Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orange and blue bills that look like play money are helping 2.6 million needy Americans buy nearly $1 million worth of food every day.

Known as food stamps, by June 30 they'll be circulating in 1,200 areas of 43 states and Washington, D.C., including 8 of the nation's 10 most populous cities.

Backers of the stamp program call it the most promising approach yet to the goal of putting better food on the poor man's table without making it a handout.

Nobody gets food stamps for free. The poor pay for them, swapping cash for stamps worth many dollars more.

Some find it a little little blooded that the government extracts money from those it processes to help.

But Congress shows its approval by giving the Agriculture Department a bigger budget for stamps every year—$185 million for the current fiscal year, up from $116.3 million last year.

"We've got to get away from this idea of giving the poor everything we think they need," said Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., the stamp program's best friend on Capitol Hill.

"In this program the people are taught how to spend their money," she said. "As little as it is, they learn to budget it."

Mrs. Sullivan and others badgered the Eisenhower administration for a stamp program through much of the 1950s. It had too much of a welfare state aroma about it to suit Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Exit Eisenhower in 1961, and with him Benson. Enter President John F. Kennedy, determined to have stamps.

Kennedy's first executive order was to establish a pilot program in a handful of cities. Congress put it on a formal continuing basis in 1964.

A shopper armed with books of stamps, signed on the back so no one else can use them, can buy just about anything on the grocer's shelves so long as it's food and—with the exception of coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas — American-grown.

Purchase of tobacco and alcoholic beverages is forbidden. But no one at Agriculture kids himself that there's 100 per cent compliance on this. Especially in the little one-man neighborhood groceries where the customer and the man behind the counter are friends from way back.

Thunderstorms also raked South Carolina, uprooting trees and downing power lines in the Bowman and Providence areas. No one was injured in the outbreak of summery weather violence.

Subzero cold hung onto the Midwest and northern Great Lakes region. Wausau, Wis., registered 10 below before dawn.

Snowstorm Sweeps East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wind-driven snowstorm swept through the Northeast today, burying many inland sections in knee-deep snow and pelting some fringe areas with rain, sleet and freezing rain.

The storm extended into New England after a quick sweep across the South Thursday.

The Virginia highlands and western Maryland were hobbled by up to a foot and a half of snow. Northwestern Pennsylvania and northern Upstate New York were pasted with foot-deep snows during the night.

Gale warnings flew along the Atlantic Coast and the brisk winds ranged far inland. Travelers warnings were in effect for a wide area.

The Weather Bureau indicated the snow piled up at the rate of an inch an hour in parts of Pennsylvania, New York and New England through the night. Depths of 8 to 9 inches were common from the Virginia northeastward into Maine.

Many coastal sections escaped the brunt of the snow, or had it washed away quickly by rain. But cooler nighttime temperatures turned the moisture to sleet and freezing rain. Residents of southeastern Pennsylvania

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

The Rev. Homer Gail Crisman has advice on how to become an expert on South America. He says, "Stay 70 years." For the 92-year-old minister himself has spent 70 years in Ecuador and Colombia for the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

In 1897, Mr. Crisman arrived in Ecuador as one of the first missionaries to that country after its citizens had been given freedom of religion. But even though the missionaries were accepted by the government there was much opposition and at times even physical threat. In those days, Mr. Crisman traveled constantly for hundreds of miles either on foot or by horseback, visiting remote villages, setting up churches and schools and working with the Indians.

Mr. Crisman no longer makes the long hard trips but is still active in aiding the Spanish literature ministry and the book store and in Bible distribution operated by the Alliance mission there. Mr. Crisman says: "... After 70 years of serving Him in South America, I only wish I had another life to lay at His feet."

This 46th edition incorporates the first major changes in Blue Book style in more than 33 years.

The front cover carries a full-color reproduction of the great seal, and a collection of other color photos illustrating the feature article, "Today's Missouri." Each elected state official is shown in color seated at his desk.

Narrower, easier-to-read type columns replace the long lines of small type used in earlier editions. This new style also conserves space. The result is a book 252 pages thinner than its predecessor, yet containing many thousands more material about the state and its government.

Altogether there are more than 1,200 illustrations, by far the largest pictorial display of Missouri and Missourians ever included. The money saved by the new style of printing easily paid for the modernization of the book, including its color pictures, so that the Blue Book is a bigger value at less cost.

By law, the Secretary of State is limited to publishing 40,000 copies of the Blue Book.

"My only disappointment about this book," Kirkpatrick said, "is that we do not have more copies to distribute to the public. Unfortunately, only a few remain for general distribution after official requirements are met. However, all public libraries and school libraries will have Blue Books for reference purposes."

State senators get 200 and state representatives 100 Blue Books to distribute as they wish.

Secretary Kirkpatrick dedicated the book to his former boss, the late Governor Forrest Smith, whom he served as administrative assistant.

Casual and Carefree Is The Show and Blow Look

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A new era is beginning for handkerchiefs. Suddenly they are looking just right with today's pretty-girl fashions. Suddenly they have style. They're not just for blowing. They're for showing, too. The handkerchief has become an accessory.

sory and will be an important gift item on every girl's Christmas list.

This is due to the pockets which abound on this season's dresses, sweaters and skirts. Small flat patch pockets appear in multiples as breast pockets on sweaters and dresses, at hip level on this year's elongated sweaters, neatly decorate short skirts and are a must on the new tailored shirts.

But all of these empty pockets look forlorn and in need of decoration. Thus, the "handkerchief pocket" arrives as the newest accessory look.

To adapt to its public image, the handkerchief of Irish linen has climbed on the color bandwagon and is making a stand in dramatic contemporary prints that will turn a woman into an avid collector.

The stylish appearance of handkerchiefs is due partly to the way they are worn.

Casual and carefree is the "in" way. Fluff up, grab the very middle of the handkerchief to tuck in the pocket and let the rest spill over the top of the pocket for the maximum in "show." Or gather the ends together, stuff in the pocket and let the middle part puff over the top.

Not only do Irish linen handkerchiefs have the necessary crispness to adapt to this new look but if sniffles besiege you or the late, late movie leaves you in tears, you can depend on them to share your grief and be absorbent and useful when called on for active duty.

THIS YEAR'S LOOK of lots of small, flat patch pockets calls for the addition of a gay, Irish Linen handkerchief. Show-off handkerchiefs will make ideal Christmas gifts this season.

The U.S. Army Reserve teaches skills to build careers

WHEN IT'S COLD but you can't miss the home team's game, it's a smart gal who has an outfit like this in her wardrobe. Toasty pile-lined wool coat checkmates the weather with the deepest of collars, wide-flap pockets and optional belt. Wear it with matching check pants and a rib turtle. These are by Russ Togs.

ORANGE BOWL QUEEN for 1968 is Patricia Taylor, a 20-year-old University of Miami junior from Fairfax, Va.

SECOND STEP — After drawing on design, cut away largest design area. Be sure to cut through only one layer of cloth. Turn under raw edges; blind stitch. Continue cutting and stitching successive layers until design is completed.

Tidy Underwear Worth a Try

Dear Ann Landers: Many people start out by saying, "I never thought I would have to write to you," but I am not one of those. I have long suspected that one day you would go too far and arouse my indignation to the point where I could no longer remain silent. Today is the day.

Strangely enough, it is not your narrow, antiquated views on sex that prompt me to write -- it is the letter from the girl whose friend was embarrassed by her ragged underwear when she was admitted to the hospital emergency room.

She said, "Luckily Della suffered only a broken shoulder and dislocated hip but she wasn't concerned about her injuries. It was her faded and soiled underwear that caused her the most agony." And then you, like a big boob, counseled: "Check your linen, girls. Are you wearing a girdle and bra you wouldn't mind modeling in an emergency ward?" All I can say is, "Good grief!"

Della should have been thankful to almighty God that she was alive instead of worrying about her underwear. And you backed her up!

I could care less about the condition of my underwear. It's way down on the list of things that count, I think you are both crazy.

~RAGGED BUT CAREFREE~

Dear Ragged: If this column did nothing but point up the human frailties of kookiness of people it would serve a useful purpose. It is comforting to know that even the most balanced and stable individuals have a nutty hang-up or two. And incidentally, there is something to be said for tidy underwear. If you haven't tried it, don't knock it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was glad to see a letter in your column which pointed out that a great many people who complain about the free loaders on relief speak from vague generalities. They have no evidence that the "free loader" is really a lazy good-for-nothing who would rather dog it than put in an honest day's work.

I was on welfare for two years and it meant the difference between life and death to me and my family. My husband sneaked out of the house one winter night and left a note saying he was going off with Veronica to make a new life. I had heard about Veronica but I felt sure his passion for her would cool, as it had for the three dollies who preceded her.

My husband left behind four children under six years of age and a stack of unpaid bills. It was December and the coal bin was nearly empty. There was very little food in the house and our relationship with the grocer was on a cash only basis. We were what they call "slow pay."

When I married, my family told me I couldn't count on them for any help and they meant it. If I had not had the assistance of welfare I hate to think of what would have happened to me and my children. So, thank you, Ann, for refusing to run with the herd who condemn everyone on relief. We are not all parasites. --- X.Y.Z.

Dear X.Y.Z.: From the dawn of history there have always been people who would rather loaf than work. The shovel-leader was not born of the W.P.A. in 1933. He was around when they built the pyramids and he'll be with us as long as man exists. We must not withhold a helping hand to the ones who need it in order to protect ourselves from being taken in-- and no one denies that we do get taken in-- plenty.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What to Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Takes His Work Clothes When Visiting Relatives

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I always keep an old set of work clothes in a plastic bag in the trunk of my car. When on trips, or a visit with out-of-town relatives, I have the necessary clothes for an unexpected chore.

I also take a small supply of dry wood split up for kindling and some lighter fluid when we go on a vacation. They come in handy for those times when we stop to cook and eat in roadside parks.—MELVIN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My Dacron polyester fiber filled pillows are soiled and I would like to know if they can be washed. I have been unable to get any information from the store where they were bought.—M. W. T.

DEAR POLLY—All through the year I save those little plastic ties that come around bread and rolls to use when making a candy wreath for children before Christmas. Bend a coat hanger into a circle. Wrap this with aluminum foil or red or green crepe paper. Fasten in individually cellophane-wrapped candies to the hanger with plastic ties. This makes an attractive wreath that the children look forward to getting each year.—EDITH

DEAR POLLY—I have a helpful suggestion for N. G. who wants to know how to clean clam shells. When I was in New Orleans several years ago I bought some uncleaned shells and the lady at a seaside shop told me to soak them in pure liquid bleach for several hours or overnight, then rinse them in water, using a fairly rough sponge for scrubbing.—JAN

DEAR READERS—This is only recommended for white shells as the bleach would, doubtless, remove any color from colored ones.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—We find many uses for the cardboard that come in freshly laundered shirts. We find that they are fine for greeting card lists. They are easier to handle than many sheets of paper and all the names and addresses can be seen at a glance. We put a green ink dot beside each name as we write the address on the envelope. Next year we will use a red dot and so on.

Our budget is also made out on such a cardboard. It is easy to find in a hurry as I keep it under my desk blotter. There are no pages to turn and I can quickly see what I have handled. There is also room to list each day's expenditure.—MRS. C. A.

Potosi, Mo., center of the world's largest lead mining district, was hardest hit by the swirling winds. Three persons were killed and 58 others were injured.

The Potosi city hall, a super-market and several homes were destroyed.

Nevada Hikes Fees for

Marriages, Divorces

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — It will cost a little more to obtain a "quickie" marriage or divorce in Nevada, beginning Jan. 1.

The state, which ranked fifth in the country last year in marriages performed, has a new law requiring county clerks to collect $1 more for marriage licenses. The additional levy also applies to divorce and annulment decrees. The marriage license fee jumps to $6.

Nevada does not require a waiting period or blood test for marriages. Last year 86,335 couples were married in the state which has an estimated 500,000 population. There were 9,615 six-week divorce decrees.

If You Were the Judge

Slight Move of Safe Held to Be Crime

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Ike and Mike decided to rob the Hipsha Girdle Company. Instead of a "big job," however, it turned out to be a "heavy job." When they got there, they discovered that the safe, which contained $25,000, weighed well over 600 pounds.

For two tiring hours, Ike and Mike tugged and pulled on the safe in an effort to cart it off. For their great effort, however, all they managed to do was to nudge the safe a grand total of only five feet. The result? They finally gave up the caper. And, if that wasn't enough to depress them, as they were leaving the building, they were spotted by two passing policemen who arrested them on charges of grand larceny, to wit: feloniously taking and carrying away the property of another. Namely, the safe.

"Those two cops must be out of their ever-loving minds," the two would-be burglars insisted in court. "We couldn't carry away that safe if we were superman. We're innocent." IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jall Ike and Mike? This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that even if the removal of the safe was but a hair's breath, and it was five feet in this case, it was enough to constitute taking and carrying away the property of another; that the slightest change in location was sufficient to constitute the crime. (Based upon a 1958 Tennessee Supreme Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER: When a tenant has the exclusive control of the plumbing in his apartment, he, and not his landlord, is responsible for the damages produced by his carelessly permitting water to overflow on his neighbor below. (For personal guidance, see your local attorney).

Takes His Work Clothes When Visiting Relatives

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I always keep an old set of work clothes in a plastic bag in the trunk of my car. When on trips, or a visit with out-of-town relatives, I have the necessary clothes for an unexpected chore.

I also take a small supply of dry wood split up for kindling and some lighter fluid when we go on a vacation. They come in handy for those times when we stop to cook and eat in roadside parks.—MELVIN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My Daeron polyester fiber filled pillows are soiled and I would like to know if they can be washed. I have been unable to get any information from the store where they were bought.—M. W. T.

DEAR POLLY—All through the year I save those little plastic ties that come around bread and rolls to use when making a candy wreath for children before Christmas. Bend a coat hanger into a circle. Wrap this with aluminum foil or red or green crepe paper. Fasten individually cellophane-wrapped candies to the hanger with plastic ties. This makes an attractive wreath that the children look forward to getting each year.—EDITH

DEAR POLLY—I have a helpful suggestion for N. G. who wants to know how to clean clam shells. When I was in New Orleans several years ago I bought some uncleaned shells and the lady at a seaside shop told me to soak them in pure liquid bleach for several hours or overnight, then rinse them in water, using a fairly rough sponge for scrubbing.—JAN

DEAR READERS—This is only recommended for white shells as the bleach would, doubtless, remove any color from colored ones.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—We find many uses for the cardboard that come in freshly laundered shirts. We find that they are fine for greeting card lists. They are easier to handle than many sheets of paper and all the names and addresses can be seen at a glance. We put a green ink dot beside each name as we write the address on the envelope. Next year we will use a red dot and so on.

Our budget is also made out on such a cardboard. It is easy to find in a hurry as I keep it under my desk blotter. There are no pages to turn and I can quickly see what I have expended. There is also room to list each day's expenditure.—MRS. C. A.

Storms Do $10 Million Damage

CHICAGO (AP) — The tornadoes which swept through Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Mississippi on Dec. 21 may have caused as much as $10 million property damage.

The insurance information institute said today that approximately $5 million to $7 million damages occurred at the McBride, Mo., airfield where many planes were tossed by the turbulent winds.

Potosi, Mo., center of the world's largest lead mining district, was hardest hit by the swirling winds. Three persons were killed and 58 others were injured.

The Potosi city hall, a super-market and several homes were destroyed.

Nevada Hikes Fees for Marriages, Divorces

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — It will cost a little more to obtain a "quickie" marriage or divorce in Nevada, beginning Jan. 1.

The state, which ranked fifth in the country last year in marriages performed, has a new law requiring county clerks to collect $1 more for marriage licenses. The additional levy also applies to divorce and annulment decrees. The marriage license fee jumps to $6.

Nevada does not require a waiting period or blood test for marriages. Last year 86,335 couples were married in the state which has an estimated 500,000 population. There were 9,615 divorce decrees.

If You Were the Judge

Slight Move of Safe Held to Be Crime

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.

Ike and Mike decided to rob the Hipsha Girdle Company. Instead of a "big job," however, it turned out to be a "heavy job." When they got there, they discovered that the safe, which contained $25,000, weighed well over 600 pounds.

For two tiring hours, Ike and Mike tugged and pulled on the safe in an effort to cart it off. For their great effort, however, all they managed to do was to nudge the safe a grand total of only five feet. The result? They finally gave up the caper. And, if that wasn't enough to depress them, as they were leaving the building, they were spotted by two passing policemen who arrested them on charges of grand larceny, to wit: feloniously taking and carrying away the property of another. Namely, the safe.

"Those two cops must be out of their ever-loving minds," the two would-be burglars insisted in court. "We couldn't carry away that safe if we were superman. We're innocent."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Ike and Mike? This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that even if the removal of the safe was but a hair's breath, and it was five feet in this case, it was enough to constitute taking and carrying away the property of another; that the slightest change in location was sufficient to constitute the crime. (Based upon a 1958 Tennessee Supreme Court Decision)

Sex Study Finds Little Evidence of Revolution

NEW YORK (AP) - Scientists today presented findings from new studies of human sexual behavior, listing among general conclusions:

- There has been "no sexual revolution" strictly speaking, rather more a continuation of long existing trends.

- College coeds continue to equate their first sexual intercourse with love, whereas men continue to be opportunistic.

- There is a definite trend, especially among young women, for the first sexual intercourse to be a pleasurable event.

- Newer contraceptive devices do NOT seem to have prompted any rise in the percentage of women having intercourse before marriage.

- Use of birth control devices doesn't seem to lead to increased sexual activity so much as to increased enjoyment.

The scientists addressed session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Paul H. Gebhard, director of the Institute for Sex Research at Indiana University founded by the late Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, described first results from a 1967 survey among nearly 1,200 men and women in colleges across the nation, compared with findings from similar questioning of about as many college students in the 1940's and early 1950's—a generation or nearly so ago.

So far, he said, "all this sounds like a continuation of the trend toward sexual equality with the female being regarded both by males and by herself as less a sexual object to be exploited, and more as a fellow human with her own needs, expectations, and rights."

The 1967 study was conducted under direction of Dr. William Simon of the Institute at Bloomington, Ind.

Compared with a generation ago, Dr. Gebhard said, "It is clear that the enormous difference between how males and females view their initial partner has changed very little. In brief, females surrender their virginity to males they love, whereas males are much less emotional involved."

For college coeds now at their first experience, "love was involved in 70 to 90 per cent of cases"—similar to the earlier findings.

Young men now rarely have their first experience with prostitutes—only two to seven per cent in the new study compared with 20 to 25 per cent previous.

River Reaches Flood Stage

CAIRO - The Mississippi River reached flood stage - 40 feet on the Cairo gauge Tuesday - and rose one tenth of a foot during the next 24 hours. The reading was 40.1 Wednesday morning, and weather bureau representatives expressed the belief that this is near the crest.

The light snowfall in the area was also expected to help the situation. The weather bureau expert explained that if the widespread precipitation had been in the form of rain, it would have spilled more water into the river, and would result in higher stages. Snow, however, will permit ditches and tributaries and the river to fall slightly.

'67 Year of Old Movies On TV

NEW YORK (AP) - The year 1967 has not been the greatest in television history. It has been notable primarily because broadcasts of motion pictures originally made for theaters dominated the schedules of the three major networks, consistently attracted large audiences and generally raised hob with the popularity of TV programs which were opposite them.

Some may speculate that the popularity of old movies stems from the perennial problem in television of maintaining a steady supply of satisfying, meaningful drama. ABC's "Stage 67" which started out so optimistically in 1966 to help fill this void, limped painfully into oblivion at the season's end.

But in the past year "CBS Playhouse" did make a promising start with an occasional prestige dramatic show, although it was able to turn out only three programs during the 12-month period. The determination to develop once again original television dramas may yet prove to have been the most interesting event of the year.

The project was actually started two years ago. Last week when the top executives had their first look at the taped production of "Death of a Salesman," they realized it would cause excitement, and decided to try to develop some original plays.

"We decided that dramas had to start at the typewriter," recalled CBS Vice President Michael Dann. "We couldn't do a weekly dramatic show. From past experience we knew that about one out of eight shows would be really good, and today a weekly series with that average couldn't last six months."

CBS set aside $500,000 for scripts, particularly earmarked for new writers. To the network's surprise, the project has had the effect of luring back to television some of its most illustrious dropouts.

"CBS Playhouse" pays $25,000 for each drama, about double the usual amount, and gives the authors all subsequent rights to the property, makes no demands as to length, is careful about the placement commercials and signs big stars to play the leading roles.

The result was that some of the writers who had quit the medium in frustration and despair, once again became interested. Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel have had their teleplays broadcast and are working on second dramas. Tad Mosell, Gore Vidal and Paddy Chayefsky—long gone from TV—are commissioned for future productions. CBS has used up its first $500,000 and is now busily spending its second $500,000.

Mercury to 11, Winter Low

Sikeston residents woke up in the coldest temperatures of the winter this morning. The mercury dipped to 11 degrees.

Previous low was a reading of 17 recorded Dec. 25. Temperatures since have remained below the freezing mark most of the week, reaching highs of 33 on Dec. 26 and 27 and rising only to 29 Dec. 28.

Below normal temperatures are expected to prevail through the next five days with the U.S. weather bureau predicting temperatures Saturday through Wednesday 10 to 16 degrees below normal highs of near 48 and normal lows of 30 to 32.

Bandleader Paul Whiteman Dies

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) - Famed bandleader Paul Whiteman, the "King of Jazz," died today apparently of a heart attack. He was 76.

The musician was rushed to Doylestown Hospital about 4:30 a.m. after he was stricken in his home near this Bucks County town 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Whiteman was considered the dean of modern American music and the man who first combined classical music with jazz. He commissioned George Gershwin to compose "Rhapsody in Blue" and conducted it in 1924 in the first jazz concert ever given. He also introduced Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite." His recording of "Three O'Clock in the Morning" sold 3 million copies.

Whiteman, known to his associates as "Pops," directed such musical stars as Bing Crosby, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Morton Downey and Benny Goodman when his band was the most popular in the country between World War I and World War II.

He remained devoted to all kinds of music to the very end. "I don't think you have to live in one groove all the time," he said recently. "If it's well done, it's well done, no matter what kind it is."

One of the highlights of Whiteman's career came last fall when residents of New Hope, the quaint Bucks County village 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia on the Delaware River, where he lived in semiretirement, honored him for his half century in jazz.

He named his retirement home "Coda" explaining a coda was the last eight bars.

Whiteman was born in Denver, Colo., and played first violin in the Denver Symphony in his teens. He formed his first orchestra shortly after World War I and toured the United States and Europe.

In the 1930s, Whiteman became a popular conductor on radio programs. In 1943 he was musical director of the Blue Network, which later became the American Broadcasting Co.

"I never believed," Whiteman said, "that jazz was as bad as the symphonists thought it was, nor that symphony was as bad as the jazz lovers thought it was. I thought there ought to be a common ground—and 'Rhapsody' found it."

In 1931 Whiteman married former movie actress Margaret Livingston, his fourth wife. She succeeded in altering his too ample figure by diet and exercise, and the band leader—amid considerable fanfare—reduced from 327 to 185.

He was soon back about the 200-pound mark and kept himself between 210 and 220.

Whiteman became a radio disc jockey in 1947 with a yearly gross for his programs of $52 million, then the largest single sale in the history of broadcasting. His weekly salary was $4,000.

In 1955 he became master of ceremonies of "America's Greatest Bands," a summer television replacement for the Jackie Gleason show.

Whiteman had one son, Paul Jr., by a previous marriage to Vanda Hoff. He and his fourth wife, Margaret, had a daughter, Margot.

Both Branches Want Credit for Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Both Congress and the Johnson administration now seek credit for budget cuts each shied away from for many months.

Postsession statements by several senators and representatives list a resolution mandating spending decreases among the top congressional achievements of the year.

But the administration views the resolution as the result of "an executive branch proposal."

For months prior to enactment of the resolution in the House, President Johnson and Congress each argued the other had the responsibility for reducing spending.

Each expressed satisfaction with the end result, however, Mrs. Edna Landers was a Christmas Eve guest of the Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rowell were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter as veterans' benefits, farm superintendent of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Boyer and son James works projects.

'67 Year of Old Movies On TV

NEW YORK (AP) - The year 1967 has not been the greatest in television history. It has been notable primarily because broadcasts of motion pictures originally made for theaters dominated the schedules of the three major networks, consisting of large audiences and generally raised the popularity of TV programs which were opposite them.

Some may speculate that the popularity of old movies stems from the perennial problem in television of maintaining a steady supply of satisfying, meaningful drama. ABC's "Stage 67" which started out so optimistically in 1966 to help fill this void, limped painfully into oblivion at the season's end.

But in the past year "CBS Playhouse" did make a promising start with an occasional prestige dramatic show, although it was able to turn out only three programs during the 12-month period. The determination to develop once again original television dramas may yet prove to have been the most interesting event of the year.

The project was actually started two years ago. Executives had their first look at the taped production of "Death of a Salesman." They realized it would cause excitement, and decided to try to develop some original plays.

"We decided that dramas had to start at the typewriter," recalled CBS Vice President Michael Dann. "We couldn't do a weekly dramatic show. From past experience we knew that about one out of eight shows would be really good, and today a weekly series with that average couldn't last six months."

CBS set aside $500,000 for scripts, particularly earmarked for new writers. To the network's surprise, the project has had the effect of luring back to television some of its most illustrious dropouts.

"CBS Playhouse" pays $25,000 for each drama, about double the usual amount, and gives the authors all subsequent rights to the property, makes no demands as to length, is careful about the placement commercials and signs big stars to play the leading roles.

The result was that some of the writers who had quit the medium in frustration and despair, once again became interested. Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel have had their teleplays broadcast and are working on second dramas. Tad McSel, Gore Vidal and Paddy Chayefsky - long gone from TV - are commissioned for future productions. CBS has used up its first $500,000 and is now busily spending its second $500,000.

Whitehead was born in Denver, Colo., and played first violin in the Denver Symphony in his teens. He formed his first orchestra shortly after World War I and toured the United States and Europe.

In the 1930s, Whitehead became a popular conductor on radio programs. In 1943 he was musical director of the Blue Network, which later became the American Broadcasting Co.

"I never believed," Whitehead said, "that jazz was as bad as the symphonists thought it was. I thought there ought to be a common ground - and 'Rhapsody' found it."

In 1931 Whitehead married former movie actress Margaret Livingston, his fourth wife. She succeeded in altering his too-ample figure by diet and exercise, and the band leader - amid considerable fanfare - reduced from 327 to 185.

He was soon back above the 200-pound mark and kept himself between 210 and 220.

Whitehead became radio disc jockey in 1947 with a yearly gross for his programs of $5.2 million, then the largest single sale in the history of broadcasting. His weekly salary was $4,000.

In 1955 he became master of ceremonies of "America's Greatest Bands," a summer television replacement for the Jackie Gleason show.

Whitehead had one son, Paul Jr., by a previous marriage to Vanda Hoff. He and his fourth wife, Margaret, had a daughter, Margot.

Bandleader Paul Whiteman Dies

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) - Famed bandleader Paul Whiteman, the "King of Jazz," died today apparently of a heart attack. He was 76.

The musician was rushed to Doylestown Hospital about 4:30 a.m. after he was stricken in his home near this Bucks County town 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Whiteman was considered the dean of modern American music and the man who first combined classical music with jazz.

He commissioned George Gershwin to compose "Rhapsody in Blue" and conducted it in 1924 in the first jazz concert ever given. He also introduced Ferde Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite." His recording of "Three O'Clock in the Morning" sold 3 million copies.

Whiteman, known to his associates as "Pops," directed such musical stars as Bing Crosby, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Morton Downey and Benny Goodman when his band was the most popular in the country between World War I and World War II.

He remained devoted to all kinds of music to the very end. "I don't think you have to live in one groove all the time," he said recently. "If it's well done, it's well done, no matter what kind it is."

One of the highlights of Whiteman's career came last fall when residents of New Hope, the quaint Bucks County village 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia on the Delaware River, where he lived in semiretirement, honored him for his half-century in jazz.

He named his retirement home "Coda" explaining a coda was the last eight bars.

Both Branches Want Credit for Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Both Congress and the Johnson administration now seek credit for budget cuts each shied away from for many months.

Postsession statements by several senators and representatives list a resolution mandating spending decreases among the top congressional achievements of the year.

But the administration views the resolution as the result of "an executive branch proposition."

For months prior to enactment of the resolution in the closing hours of the congressional session, President Johnson and Congress each argued the other had the responsibility for reducing spending.

Each expressed satisfaction with the end result, however. One likely reason is the way in which the final product allows generalized claims of economy while avoiding any impact on politically sensitive areas.

And the mandate for cuts was unrelated to previous years.

Thus, in the wonderland of federal finance, the claims of a cutback of nearly $10 billion come in the wake of a session of which total appropriations approved were $10 billion more than the previous all-time high of $147 billion set in 1942.

In any given fiscal year, much of the actual dollar outlay is based on appropriations of previous years.

While the congressional budget-cutters say their savings directive will produce a reduction of $4 billion in spending this year, that figure is again related to the Johnson budget estimates, not to any actual levels of federal spending.

And there's some question as to whether the number of dollars paid out this year will even be under the estimates, much less last year's spending.
